

Denis on Phone

I'm Ruined, He Told Lamontagne

OTTAWA (CP)—Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, was quoted Tuesday as saying, "Pierre, you swore you wouldn't say a word to anyone" during a phone call with Pierre Lamontagne monitored by two RCMP officers investigating a $20,000 bribe offer.

The Denis statement was quoted by former RCMP sergeant Ronald Crevier testifying to the Dorion judicial inquiry into charges by Mr. Lamontagne he was offered money and subjected to political pressure to agree to release on bail of a narcotics smuggling suspect.

Mr. Crevier, now an investigator for Mr. Lamontagne's law firm, said Mr. Denis told Mr. Lamontagne:

"I'm finished, I'm ruined." He said during the course of the 25-minute call Mr. Denis also denied offering Mr. Lamontagne $10,000 payable July 15 and another $10,000 when Lucien Rivard was released on bail.

Mr. Lamontagne is counsel for the United States government which wants Rivard on an indictment linking Rivard with the Mafia international crime syndicate.

SECOND WITNESS

Mr. Crevier, a tall, thin man with a reddish fringe of hair around a big bald patch, was the second witness heard Tuesday by the inquiry under Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court.

Earlier, Guy Lord, former special assistant to Justice Minister Favreau, testified he inquired about the Rivard case Aug. 4 at the suggestion of Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal Doherty and chairman of the caucus of Liberal MPs.

He said his call wasn't to arrange bail—as suggested in testimony by Mr. Lamontagne—but simply to obtain information about a case he thought the Canadian government was involved in.

NOT INVOLVED

He said Mr. Lamontagne made it clear there could be no question of bail for Rivard and the federal justice department wasn't involved.

Mr. Lord said he conveyed this information to Rouleau, who visited him twice the same day about the matter, and told the MP it would be useless for Mr. Rouleau to see Mr. Favreau about it.

He said he gathered from Mr. Lamontagne that Mr. Rouleau was interested in getting Rivard free on bail, adding under questioning by Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservatives, that a statement he gave

'Grits: Clean House'

EDMONTON (UPI)—National Social Credit leader Robert Thompson fired a second punch at the minority Liberal administration Tuesday, saying it faces 30 days of decision in which to fire a number of cabinet ministers or face possible defeat when the session resumes in February.

He indicated it was doubtful if the Dorion inquiry could save face for the Pearson administration.

"While I can not pre-judge the hearing, I must say that unless the ministers involved are completely exonerated, the government cannot expect the support of the House or the people."

"There are four ministers under a cloud of suspicion, who have played the government's image at an all-time low," he added.

Cast of Bribery Probe

The Dorion Players

Here is a partial guide to the cast in the Dorion inquiry, the biggest courtroom drama in recent Canadian history:

Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court, conducting the judicial investigation into allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling at lofty levels of the federal government.

Lucien Rivard, 48, wanted in the United States on a charge of narcotics smuggling for the Mafia crime syndicate, in jail while his lawyers try to get him out on bail or habeas corpus.

Pierre Lamontagne, 29, acting for the U.S., who says he was offered a $20,000 bribe not to oppose bail for Rivard.

Raymond Denis, 31, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, accused by Lamontagne of offering him the bribe.

Guy Lord, 25, former executive assistant to Justice Minister Favreau; and Andre Letendre, executive assistant to Mr. Favreau, both alleged to have tried to coerce Lamontagne.

Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal Doherty who resigned as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson saying he had made representations in the Rivard case.

Raymond Desautel, lawyer for Rivard.

POSSIBLE WITNESSES

Eddie Lechasseur, charged with fraud in Montreal, friend of Rivard.

Robert Emilien Giguere, charged with capital murder in Montreal.

Guy Masson, so far unidentified.

Raymond Rouleau, brother of the MP.

Back-Room Arrangement

UN Compromise Delays Showdown

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly chose three members of the Security Council Tuesday under a back-room arrangement to put off until January any showdown over voting rights of the Soviet Union and other debtor countries.

But the arrangement failed to produce enough support for a victory for either Mali or Jordan in a contest for a fourth council seat, and a new attempt will be made today.

Malaysia, The Netherlands and Uruguay were declared accepted as non-permanent members of the council to take office on New Year's Day.

RECESS CLEAR

If the assembly disposes of the Security Council problem the way will be open to recess today until Jan. 11 while negotiations continue on the deadlock over application of article 19 of the UN Charter involving voting rights.

The procedure on the Security Council vacancies was another chapter in the unorthodox method adopted at the assembly's opening Dec. 1 when it agreed to a no-vote truce while attempts were made to resolve the dispute over article 19.

Chief delegates filed into an office and marked their choices for the four council seats.

The assembly will meet this afternoon to deal with the Mal-Jordan deadlock and a resolution permitting Secretary-General U Thant to spend money for UN salaries and other expenses in January on the same basis as in the 1964 budget.

India Rounds Up Top Communists

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Police swooped down on India's Communist party early today, making several hundred arrests throughout the country under the preventive detention acts.

Five Communist party Politburo members were arrested at Trichur, in the southwest Indian state of Kerala, where they were attending a party meeting.

Africans Divided Over Congo Vote

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A split between African countries over a UN Security Council resolution for Congo peace prevented a vote in the council Tuesday. The council was ordered to return for a 16th session today.

Ivory Coast and Morocco, African members of the council, presented a joint resolution calling for a ceasefire in The Congo and ordering Premier

Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries withdrawn.

But Guinea's Achkar Marof, spokesman for 18 complaining African countries, objected to giving Secretary-General U Thant a watchdog role in carrying out the resolution.

He proposed an amendment striking any mention of Thant from the resolution. Unless it was adopted, he said, the group of 18 would oppose the entire measure.

New Hitler Era On the Horizon?

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—Dr. Martin Niemöller, the controversial German pastor, advised West Germans Tuesday to boycott September's federal elections which he said could bring a dictatorship worse than Adolf Hitler's.

Dr. Niemöller, one of the presidents of the World Council of Churches, in an article he wrote for the monthly Protestant magazine Stimmme der Gemeinde, predicted a coalition by the dominant political parties in the Bonn parliament that could end "in a dictatorship." To prevent such a development, Dr. Niemöller called on West Germans to show their dissatisfaction by making their ballots invalid.

Dr. Niemöller was a German submarine captain in the First World War and an early supporter of Hitler. Later, however, he was sent to a concentration camp for his anti-Nazi sentiments. He retired a few weeks ago from the presidency of the Evangelical Church in the State of Hesse.

To Cut-Off Thousands

DAREDEVILS LOFT FOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Daredevil helicopter pilots bucked crosswinds and snowstorms Tuesday to fly supplies to some of the 2,500 people marooned by Christmas week floods in the far West.

The pilots, flying out of Yreka, Calif., in "weather you wouldn't believe," completed some missions to Happy Camp near the California-Oregon state line, where 1,300 people had been cut off from the outside.

Three other helicopters flying supplies had to turn back in the face of rapidly-changing weather conditions that lifted briefly and then resumed with renewed fury.

FOUR ATTEMPTS

Attempts to reach other and smaller isolated communities on the Klamath and Salmon rivers were thwarted by the storm, which was expected to continue through today. Four attempts to reach the community of Forks of Salmon had to be given up.

The snowstorm was an aftermath of last week's torrential floods that took at least 41 lives and caused more than $800,000,000 damage in the five-state area of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Commercial helicopter pilots, dubbed "the best in the world" by civil defence officials, were poised to try to reach the smaller communities between breaks in the storm if possible today.

SOON AS POSSIBLE

"They are flying in weather you wouldn't believe," said civil defence director Bill Sowle in Yreka. "We have the supplies and the helicopters and will get them into those canyons just as soon as humanly possible."

"We are getting a better picture of conditions in these now, we have got radio contact and the people are requesting certain supplies—like milk, cheap medicines. One guy even asked for a can of pipe tobacco."

SMALL GROUPS

Sowle added that there were miners and others in small groups that had not been contacted and were still not accounted for.

"But when we get a break in the weather, we will find them quickly," he said. "We will put on what you might call a massive airlift."

Sowle said that 25 air force helicopters from Stead Air Force Base, Nev., were presently at Kingsley Air Force Base near Klamath Falls, Ore., and would be brought to Siskiyou County today to help when the weather breaks.

HAPPY CAMP

He said four-wheel drive vehicles had pushed through "a kind of a road" to Happy Camp and delivered supplies to the residents there.

"It is open for emergencies only," he said, "because part of the way the four-wheelers have to be towed by cats (tractors)."

Snow and rain from the storm continued to pelt most of the Pacific Coast north of San Francisco.

Oregon's Bill: $315,000,000

PORTLAND (AP)—Federal officials Tuesday estimated loss in Oregon floods at almost $315,000,000.

A federal disaster inspection team set transportation and utilities damage at $100,000,000. The breakdown included $55,000,000 in roads and streets; $55,000,000 to agriculture; $33,000,000 to industrial and commercial properties; and $11,300,000 to residential areas.

Vancouver Still Digging

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hit by another series of snowflurries Tuesday, Vancouver dug deeper into its dwindling supplies of salt in efforts to keep main streets clear.

Crews continued their round-the-clock sanding, salting and plowing following a heavy snowfall Monday night and early Tuesday and snowflurries again Tuesday afternoon.

The overnight storm dumped between three and five inches on the western portion of the Greater Vancouver area. Some North Shore communities got as much as 12 inches.

SOME HEAVIER

The snowfall Tuesday afternoon added to the 26.4 inches that has fallen at Vancouver Airport in December. Many suburbs had heavier snowfalls.

The weather office saw no immediate end to the snow and cold.

Ron Martin, city engineer, said the situation was a near-emergency and the city was appealing to motorists not to park on main roads so that snow-clearing could be done effectively.

If an emergency were called, the city would ban street parking. A number of cars were towed away from downtown streets Monday night following police warnings.

Salt was looming as a major problem, however.

"We have got some salt left and are trying to make it last until our big supply comes in (in January)," said Mr. Martin.

ROUTES BLOCKED

The Vancouver Salt Company said its supplies were exhausted and it was unable to get more immediately because of flooding in California and Oregon along trucking routes.

It was virtually impossible to get chains or snow tires in Vancouver Tuesday.

FRESH SUPPLIES

Most major tire firms said they had no supply of 14-inch snow tires although truckers were attempting to bring fresh supplies in from eastern Canada.

Garages and stores have been sold out of chains for several days, although some garages were getting a limited supply.

'Accuser' Faces Contempt Action

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government will take contempt of court action against Montreal author Jacques Hebert because of passages in his book, 'J'Accuse les Assassins de Cofin. (I Accuse the Assassins of Coffin).

Attorney-General Claude Wagner told a press conference the decision to launch the action was taken at a cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Publication of the book led to a Quebec royal commission a year ago and the inquiry report handed to Mr. Wagner earlier this month concluded Mr. Hebert's contention that Wilbert Coffin was railroaded to the gallows by government and police officials was largely unfounded.

Coffin was hanged in 1936 for the murder of one of three United States bear hunters killed in the Casape Peninsula three years earlier. A number of police officers and officials named in the book are already suing Mr. Hebert for a total of $120,000.

Bonanno's Son Picked Up

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Tucson police and FBI agents arrested Tuesday the son of vanished underworld leader Joseph Bonanno.

Salvatore (Bill) Bonanno, 32, was taken from a barber's chair and brought before U.S. Commissioner Thomas McKay on a federal warrant issued in New York.

The warrant orders Bonanno to appear in New York Jan. 5 before a federal grand jury inquiring into the Oct. 31 disappearance of his father.

I'm Ruined, Denis Told Lawyer

the RCMP on this point was in exact.

Mr. Drouin had quoted Mr. Lord's statement Aug. 26 to the RCMP as saying Mr. Lord had gained the impression Mr. Rouleau wanted Rivard out on bail from Rouleau himself.

Mr. Rouleau at the time was parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, a post he resigned after Mr. Lamontagne's charges of attempted bribery and coercion were aired in the Commons.

In resigning, Mr. Rouleau said he made normal representations in the case but never offered money or transmitted a money offer.

MONITORED CALL.

During Mr. Crevier's testimony, the 36-year-old former head of the RCMP's Montreal narcotics squad said he and a Constable Poisson were ordered to monitor a phone conversation between Mr. Lamontagne and Mr. Denis Aug. 20.

He said he heard Mr. Denis say in reply to a question from Mr. Lamontagne things were going "very badly, the situation is terrible." Mr. Denis had been questioned by the RCMP the previous day. Mr. Lamontagne had said he was in the same situation, blaming Mr. Denis for his position.

Mr. Crevier testified Mr. Denis said he was aware Mr. Lamontagne had made a statement to the RCMP and at that point had referred to Mr. Lamontagne having promised not to say a word to anyone.

ASKS ABOUT OFFER.

The former policeman said talk turned to the Rivard case. Mr. Lamontagne asked Mr. Denis whether the executive assistant remembered offering $10,000 when Mr. Lamontagne was in Ottawa July 14.

Mr. Crevier said Mr. Denis asked whether the Montreal lawyer was sure he had spoken to Mr. Lamontagne about money. Mr. Lamontagne had said he was to get $10,000 July 15 and another $10,000 when Rivard was free.

The former Mountie said Mr. Denis said he didn't remember this and didn't know what Mr. Lamontagne was talking about.

SEEMS ADVISE.

Mr. Lamontagne had asked who approached Mr. Denis about the case and Mr. Denis had replied he would tell only Mr. Favreau. Mr. Denis had said he would ask Mr. Favreau's advice and then give a full statement to the RCMP.

Mr. Crevier testified Mr. Lamontagne had mentioned to Mr. Denis the money was to come from the Liberal party. Mr. Denis had insisted there had been no talk of money between them.

PROTESTS PRESSURE.

He said Mr. Lamontagne also referred to phone calls he had received near Chicoutimi while on holiday after July 14 and had told Mr. Denis he couldn't endure the pressure. Mr. Denis had said he didn't recall Mr. Lamontagne telling him this in a July 22 phone call.

Mr. Lamontagne testified previously he told Mr. Denis after the Chicoutimi calls to "tell your boys to leave me alone."

The former RCMP officer testified he was asked July 23 to call Mr. Lamontagne in Chicoutimi. Mr. Lamontagne had told him of receiving two telephone calls from Raymond Dandane, counsel for Rivard, and another from a man identified only as Bob who Mr. Lamontagne thought might have used the name Gingras.

He said Mr. Lamontagne told him he was troubled about the calls and wanted Mr. Crevier to know he was absolutely opposed to bail for Rivard.

He said he advised Mr. Lamontagne to talk to Inspector Carriere or Constable Poisson in the RCMP criminal investigation branch if the lawyer was bothered or there was anything wrong.

Mr. Lord, who left the justice department last September to study at Oxford, was the first of three special assistants or executive assistants to testify.

STILL IN JAIL.

Mr. Lord is scheduled to be heard later. So is Andre Letendre, Mr. Favreau's present executive assistant who has been identified by the minister as having made a call to Mr. Lamontagne about the Rivard case.

Rivard, owner of a plush restaurant and resort near Montreal, still is in jail there. He was arrested last June, extradition proceedings were started and he now is appealing an extradition order.

Mr. Lord, a 25-year-old lawyer, denied several pieces of testimony by Mr. Lamontagne in replying to questions put by his own counsel, Yvon Jamin.

NEVER MADE CALLS.

Mr. Lamontagne had said Mr. Lord called him Aug. 4 on behalf of Justice Minister Favreau.

Mr. Lord said this was not so. He never made calls on behalf of the minister unless told to do so by Mr. Favreau.

Mr. Lamontagne quoted Mr. Lord as saying Mr. Favreau was dissatisfied with his handling of the Rivard case.

Mr. Lord said no mention had been made of whether the minister was pleased or displeased.

Mr. Favreau had never spoken to him about the case.

Mr. Lamontagne said he had inferred from Mr. Lord he might not get further government legal work.

Mr. Lord said he had never used any words in his conversation with Mr. Lamontagne which might be even remotely linked with the lawyer's legal work for the government.

Mr. Lord also said he had never heard of any bribery or other intervention on his behalf that he was aware of.

Mr. Lord testified Mr. Rouleau came to see him Aug. 4 or 5 and asked for information about a narcotics case involving a man named Rivard, a constituent in Montreal.

He said the name Rivard meant nothing to him then. He had tried to get the deputy justice minister but couldn't, so had called Mr. Lamontagne, the man Mr. Rouleau had told him knew all about the case.

OPPOSED TO BAIL.

He said Mr. Lamontagne, who is the RCMP's agent on narcotics prosecutions but in the Rivard case is counsel for the U.S. justice department, told him he was opposed to bail for Rivard.

He quoted Mr. Lamontagne as saying the RCMP had a big file on Rivard, that Rivard could easily get out of the country if released on bail and Rivard's lawyers knew bail wasn't normal in such cases.

After the call, he said he advised Mr. Favreau that the minister might be spoken to by Mr. Lord about a Rivard case but he hadn't been able to give Mr. Favreau much detail because the minister was leaving the office.

SECOND TIME.

Later, he said, Mr. Rouleau came to see him a second time and he informed him of his talk with Mr. Lamontagne.

He said some short time later — not the same day — Mr. Letendre, also working out of Mr. Favreau's office, had asked him about the Rivard case and had told him (Mr. Letendre) would look after it.

At one point in his testimony, Mr. Lord denied telling Mr. Lamontagne he considered Rivard a "rummy bandit."

Mr. Lamontagne had testified. He had said Rivard was not a person for whom he had any sympathy.

WORKED AT HOTEL.

Mr. Lord testified he had worked at Hotel Ideal during the spring and summer of 1961 which was later sold to Rivard. He and other employees were fired about two or three weeks after Rivard bought the property. He had talked only once or twice with Rivard at the time.

Mr. Lord testified he had been introduced to Mr. Lamontagne by Mr. Denis. He had never discussed the case with Mr. Denis.

He said in his call to Mr. Lamontagne the Montreal lawyer seemed to assume Mr. Lord was calling him about getting Rivard out on bail. He said Mr. Lamontagne told him he was fed up with pressure and threats in connection with the case.

SEEMED EXASPERATED.

He said Mr. Lamontagne had raised Mr. Rouleau's name, telling Mr. Lord he guessed Mr. Rouleau was interested in the Rivard case. He said Mr. Lamontagne seemed "rather exasperated."

He said he found all that Mr. Lamontagne told him about the case "quite convincing" and said it was Mr. Lamontagne, not himself, who mentioned the question of bail for Rivard.

62 Marooned On Island In Pacific

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Two women and 60 men were marooned on a mid-Pacific island 1,000 miles south of Honolulu Tuesday after being rescued from a grounded freighter by native islanders.

They were the crew of the 5,967-ton British ship Southbank, which struck a coral reef off Washington Island and split in two after loading a cargo of copra.

A second officer drowned during rescue attempts. The women rescued were the wife of the captain and the chief engineer's wife.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor John Wayne said Tuesday that his recent hospital stay was for removal of "cancer of the lung—and I've licked it."

Wayne, 57, said he had withheld news of his condition because "my advisers all thought it would destroy my image."

"But there's a hell of a lot of good image in John Wayne licking cancer—and that's what my doctors tell me."

Wayne entered hospital Sept. 16 for "treatment of an old ankle injury."

But later it was announced that he was being treated for an abscess in one lung. He was sent home after an operation.

Soviet Voting 'Unlike Democracy'

MOSCOW (AP)—Elections in the Soviet Communist party sometimes "have nothing in common with democracy," the party journal Kommunist said Tuesday.

The journal criticized domination of the party ranks by some bosses as part of a continuing campaign against ill now being attributed to the Khrushchev era.

A previous issue of the journal, had disclosed that party meetings often were rigged and speeches carefully cleared in advance by the bosses.

'No Quebec Revolt Against Canada'

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Wilder Penfield, Canadian neurosurgeon who is co-chairman of the current American Association of the Advancement of Science convention here, told delegates to the gathering Monday that Quebec is not in revolt against the rest of Canada.

Dr. Penfield, longtime head of the Montreal Neurological Institute, assured his largely American audience Canada is not headed for disintegration or civil war.

POLICY CHANGE.

Quebec's revolution, he said, is "not against the rest of Canada. It is within and initiated entirely by French-Canadians, assisted by a wisely liberal change in policy on the part of the Catholic church and organized by the most efficient and far-sighted provincial government within the memory of Quebec citizens."

News of federal parliamentary squabbles, student demonstrations, provincial claims and separatism is misleading, Dr. Penfield said. "There is a solid Canadian majority in every province made up of sane, realistic people."

"MATURING"

Dr. Penfield, American-born but "now a loyal Canadian who has joined the English-speaking minority of Quebec," said he sees "intelligent Canadianism growing, the people maturing slowly."

Dealing with specifics on French-English co-existence within Canada, Dr. Penfield recommended that English-Canadians make more use of French-Canadians to teach French in their schools.

TAUGHT EARLY.

He also repeated his view that second languages can be taught early to children without taking away from their grasp of their mother tongue. At early ages they have "uncommitted cortex" in their brains, he said.

Aluminum Chloride Mixture Makes Effective Deodorant

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: After reading your suggestions on deodorants I bought a 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride and mixed it half and half with toilet water. It made a very pleasant and effective deodorant. When I put it in a spray bottle, it clouded somewhat but otherwise performed nicely.

Would a mixture of this type be safe for the glands? I notice that many of the leading deodorants contain aluminum chloride.

—M.C.

There's no danger in such a mixture. All you are really doing is diluting the solution down to one-half, and adding a scent and doubling a little alcohol which could account for the cloudiness.

Medically, the active ingredient remains aluminum chloride—a preparation which is antiseptic. It gets results by controlling excessive perspiration. You can spray it on, wash it on, paint it on.

Manufacturers of deodorants have devoted a lot of effort to evolving scents, consistencies and packages that will appeal to the largest number of customers.

EASILY DILUTED.

For people with excessive perspiration problems, a plain solution of aluminum chloride is excellent, and the strength can be varied to suit the condition and the individual. If a strong solution is irritating, it can easily be diluted with plain water.

If you prefer it mixed with toilet water, there's no reason why you shouldn't, and we hereby pass your idea along to others.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you tell my son what he is doing to his health? After a big meal, he eats snacks and drinks beer on the rocks all evening.

He is 45 years old, six feet tall, and weighs 235 pounds. His waistline is 48 inches and he can't sleep nights.

I beg him to see a doctor but he refuses even to talk about it. He is a business man, and eats heavy lunches and washes every bite down with a gulp of beer. He drinks at least four cases of beer with his meals. I think he is shortening his life.

—MRS. C.A.B.

Of course, he is shortening his life. Statistics show that each overweight pound shortens life a little bit, and 50 extra pounds mean that life is shortened by quite a lot. Ten extra pounds can be a trifle harmful, 20 extra pounds can be perhaps four times as bad. And so on.

Besides, the alcohol (beer and beer) can damage the liver, the bladder, and sometimes the brain, or other organs. I agree with you: Your son is shortening his life.

But what can we do except state the facts? We can state them; he has to listen to them. If he is smart enough to be a successful business man, he can draw his own conclusions.

Missionary Feels Rebels Ignorant Of Reason for War

NEW YORK (CP)—Dolena Burk, wife of a Canadian missionary believed killed by Congo rebels, said Tuesday she believes the rebels are "entirely ignorant of the whole point of the fighting."

Mrs. Burk, who arrived here en route to her home in Calgary, said that the rebels have wide support in the eastern Congo and that she can see no hope for reconciliation of the country until their defeat.

She said she thought some of the rebels drew their inspiration from Moscow and Peking, but that most appeared to have no ideological motivation.

PHILADELPHIA—Mrs. Burk, 54, said she expects to go to Philadelphia, to the headquarters of the United Evangelized Fields Mission, before joining her mother, Mrs. Katie MacIver, in Calgary.

Mrs. Burk was in a group of 14 missionaries rescued by Congo white mercenaries 10 days ago in the Stanleyville region.

Her husband, Rev. Chester Burk, was in a group of 13 taken away by the rebels and apparently shot at Bafwasende, 150 miles northeast of Stanleyville.

21 ARRESTED—Mrs. Burk said she and her husband were in a group of 27 Roman Catholic and Protestant missionaries arrested Nov. 24, the day Belgian paratroopers dropped on Stanleyville to free hostages held by the rebels there.

Their morale remained high, she said.

"All of us were missionaries and knew God was with us," she said.

On Nov. 27, when Congo government planes appeared over Bafwasende, the group was taken out and marched toward the nearby Lindi River, where the rebels said they were to be shot.

When they were near the river, however, word came from the rebels that Mrs. Burk and two other Protestant women missionaries were to be taken back.

She said they appeared to have been picked out at random.

SHOTS HEARD—Three nursing sisters in a group of 11 Roman Catholic sisters were also ordered back, but they refused to go and the rebels eventually let the whole group of sisters return.

Eventually 14—including three women and the 16-year-old daughter of one of them—were taken out of sight to the river bank and the others heard a volley of shots ring out.

"The captain of the rebels told us the next day they hadn't shot them, but I don't believe it."

Martin Issues Plea
For Nuclear Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said today countries like Canada which have followed "a conscious policy of nuclear self-restraint" have a special role and responsibility in winning agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

In a year-end statement broadcast by the CBC's short-wave international service, Mr. Martin said the Communist Chinese nuclear test last October was clearly a setback in the search for a peaceful and orderly world.

PEACEFUL USE—"I say this because Canada is one of the countries which has for many years had the technical and economic capacity of manufacturing nuclear weapons but which has deliberately refrained from turning that capacity to other than the peaceful use of the atom."

Mr. Martin said India has seen its contribution to world peace lying in the same direction.

"The Chinese nuclear test seems to me to point up the urgent need for an international

Ottawa

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (UPI)—The judge for the Northwest Territories court has attacked what he calls "colonial bureaucracy in Ottawa hampering justice in the north."

Judge J. H. Sissons charges the departments of justice and northern affairs have practically usurped functions and jurisdiction of the territorial court in the Eastern Arctic. This was done by appointing a deputy magistrate, based in Ottawa, to travel the Eastern Arctic, while the territorial court was not informed.

GRANTS APPEAL—Judge Sissons' comments were contained in a 19-page judgment in which he granted the appeal of an Eskimo against a conviction on a charge of abandoning game fit for human consumption.

There have been a number of cases, particularly in the Eastern Arctic, where Eskimos have been charged under the Game Act and not given a fair trial, "in contempt of this court and the rule of law and administration of justice," the judgment added.

Car Rally
For Russia

MOSCOW (Reuters)—An international car rally, to be known as the Russian winter rally, will be held in the Soviet Union for the first time next March, it was reported Tuesday.

Reliable sources quoted survivors as saying that the rebels had killed and eaten "about 10 whites" on Christmas Day alone.

Wamba was one of the last towns in northeastern Congo where the rebels were known to be holding a large number of white hostages.

LONG DRIVE—A white mercenary-led column of National Congolese army troops reached Wamba early Tuesday after driving more than 240 miles from Stanleyville to the southwest.

Army sources reported 120 people were rescued, including about 110 Greeks and a Belgian. A number of Belgians in the area were among those feared taken away as hostages by the retreating rebels.

Fears for the safety of white hostages in rebel-held territory have intensified since the American-Belgian airborne rescue missions began last month.

MOVE BROADCAST—Military sources said the rebels probably knew of the advancing government column since its destination was broadcast repeatedly by various radios, including the French-language programs transmitted by radio Brazzaville in the former French Congo across the Congo River from Leopoldville.

Brazzaville is the headquarters of Congolese rebel movements.

"We know the rebels listen to the radio and we think that it is extremely irresponsible to let the rebels know that they will be attacked," one military source said. "This may have cost some lives."

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. helicopters flying Vietnamese troops into battle ran into a deadly Communist ambush Tuesday.

Viet Cong machine-gunners shot down three helicopters, damaged two others and wounded six Americans.

The setback was reported as the government disclosed its forces suffered a major defeat Saturday at an outpost 40 miles southwest of Saigon. Communists there ambushed a relief column and killed 60 government soldiers and wounded 43. Another 38 were missing.

153 KILLED—The twin communist successes almost negated the government victory reported Monday at Soc Trang, 86 miles southwest of Saigon, where Vietnamese forces over-ran a Communist general's headquarters and killed 85 Viet Cong soldiers.

While the Viet Nam war increased in tempo, Vietnamese generals met in the seaside resort of Vung Tau to seek a solution to the political crisis that has placed the military leaders at odds with the United States.

The helicopter ambush came at Binh Gia village 40 miles southeast of Saigon when the American aircraft responded as they had before by flying in Vietnamese troops to recapture the settlement. This time the Viet Cong had anti-aircraft guns ready.

MAJOR OFFENSIVE—The Communist forces apparently were the same ones that over-ran the outpost farther west on Saturday. The Viet Cong appears to have launched a major offensive into Phuoc Tuy province whose St. Jacques beach resort is a playground for Saigon's wealthy set.

There have been five major attacks in Phuoc Tuy since Nov. 24.

The battle at Binh Hai was reported still raging Tuesday night. There was no report on government or communist casualties.

SERIOUS WOUND—An American military spokesman said five of the wounded were in good condition but that the sixth had a serious knee wound.

Tuesday's attack on Binh Gia followed a similar Communist move on Dec. 5 when the Viet Cong drove two companies of government soldiers out of the town.

The Viet Cong seized the town as bait for an ambush. They were thwarted when a government relief column arrived by air instead of overland.

COMPROMISE SOUGHT—This time the Reds were ready for the aerial counter-attack.

On the political front, official sources said a group of generals flew to Vung Tau at request of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the armed forces commander, to consider a possible compromise in the political crisis that has threatened a cut in American aid.

The crisis arose when the young generals staged a partial coup Dec. 20 in which they dissolved the High National Council and arrested eight of its 15 members but left the premier and chief of state in office.

Police Fired On

Four Londoners Shot in Streets

LONDON (UPI)—A gunman fired at two London policemen Tuesday, sparking an intensive manhunt and intensifying investigations into a flurry of Christmas shootings that has baffled Scotland Yard.

Neither of the policemen was hit by the single pistol shot fired by one of two men caught lurking in the garden of a house in East London. But gun attacks on London's unarmed police are rare and police in patrol cars, motorcycles and on foot searched the area for the gunman and his companion.

ONE KILLED—The attack came within a two-mile radius of four other shootings in or outside North London during the past two weeks in which one man was killed and three others were wounded.

"It is thought there is a link between this shooting and the killing at Islington over the weekend," a police spokesman said.

A Jamaican tailor, Eric Hietzman, 24, was shot to death on Dec. 27 as he stood outside a pub in Islington. On Dec. 18, Charles Smith, a 24-year-old electrician, was hit by a shotgun blast as he stood at the bar of a pub near his home. On Christmas Day, a shotgun blast from a moving car wounded barman Michael Dillon, 40, as he was leaving a tavern.

Monday night, schoolteacher Michael Dadd, 20, was shot from a moving car as he left a pub.

Brinks Offers Reward

FBI, Police Look for Link Between Two Big Holdups

CHICAGO (UPI)—U.S. federal agents and police in two states attempted Tuesday to determine if there is a link between Monday night's $223,000 robbery of a Brinks Inc. armored truck at a suburban Catholic church rectory and a similar holdup last week at Paterson, N.J., in which $314,000 was taken.

Three masked bandits overpowered two priests and lay in wait for the Brinks truck.

"These guys went to school on the Paterson job," a Chicago detective said.

Marlin W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said it was possible "that the Paterson mob could have come here."

Michael J. Spiotto, Chicago's acting chief of detectives, said that if the robbery was the work of the same gang "they would have needed local talent. This took planning. It's just as likely that a local holdup gang studied the Paterson job and was inspired."

At Paterson, Detective Capt. John Gourley said, "There's an obvious similarity but we have to dig deeper to see if there's any connection."

REWARD $10,000

Brinks announced late Tuesday it will pay $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bandits.

Police announced they have obtained some partial finger and palm prints from articles left by the bandits, who abandoned a radio and a can of Christmas decorative spray at the scene of the holdup.

Officers speculated that the bandits might have driven to O'Hare airport and taken a plane to another state.

HOW MUCH CASH? A. S. Genet, Brinks president, said the firm had not yet determined how much of the $223,000 was in cash. Employees were checking with the 47 customers visited by the truck before it arrived at the Divine Savior Church parish house in northwest suburban Norridge Monday night.

Buffalo Raid

City Hall Robbed As Women Scream

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Two brazen gunmen invaded City Hall Tuesday, pistol-whipped the city treasurer and fled with $299,130 in cash and cheques while two women clerks ducked underneath a counter and screamed at the top of their lungs.

Policeman Thomas J. Wright, detailed to guard the treasurer's office, had stepped away from his post for a moment when the bandits entered. He rushed back when he heard the screams and was in time to fire one bullet at the bandit's fleeing automobile. The shot went wild.

The bandits would have been able to take more than $1,000,000 except for a bookkeeping snag.

The office had received a cheque for $813,000 for taxes from the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. But there had not been time to prepare it for deposit in the bank.

City treasurer Melvin W. Elliott said $16,245.80 of the amount taken was in cash. The rest, he said, was mostly in non-negotiable cheques sent in as tax payments.

As the bandits fled toward their car, a man outside city hall grabbed one of the bandits and scuffled briefly with him.

More Than D-Day

IT IS AN OFFSET of progress that society must pay for its material advancement; and nowhere more so than in the toll which accidents take of motor vehicle traffic.

These will never end, careful though the motorist might ever become, but the ironic feature is the complacency with which road fatalities grow to be accepted almost as part of the norm.

The B.C. traffic toll for this year has already exceeded the record of 385 deaths in 1962, currently numbering 390 and comparing with 360 in all of last year.

And one bad day, officials point out, would put the figure at 400 or more.

Comparisons of this nature do not reflect the real basis of increase or decrease. It is the ratio of accidents and fatalities to motor vehicles in service that would disclose the truer picture. Each year the population increases and each year there are more cars and commercial vehicles on the roads; the result is that a greater number of accidents are likely to occur.

Yet 400 deaths in B.C. alone are more than enough to create the concern with which officials view the mounting toll the highways take of human lives.

This number exceeds the D-Day fatalities suffered by the Canadian Army in its epic assault on Normandy, in which large-scale havoc is inevitable to military engagement of this magnitude. The nation viewed such loss with sorrow and disquiet, yet in B.C. itself this is exceeded each year in the pursuit of peaceful ways.

There is some evidence that the salutary lessons of car driving risks are beginning to strike home; the good record during the Christmas holiday period was encouraging although this may be mainly due to the weather conditions which kept many cars off the roads.

With the approach of the New Year weekend there is more cause than ever for motorists to put safety ahead of all other considerations. The daily toll of highway accidents can be kept at a minimum only by those who sit at the wheels of motor vehicles. And complacency should have no part in car driving.

Neither should the consumption of alcohol, always too large a contributor to the hazards of highway traffic.

Money Going Begging

IT IS NOT FAR short of amazing that in the last few days of the year, hundreds of taxpayers in Greater Victoria have not applied for the home-owner's grant of up to $85 which the provincial government will pay in their behalf if they claim it on or before Dec. 31.

Likely they have not paid any of the rest of their taxes either, presuming their total bills to exceed the grant. But that is not necessary in order to obtain the government's beneficence, as the municipalities annually make amply clear, and by applying by the due date in the summer they could have avoided the penalties on late payment of this portion of their rates.

The penalties are not onerous by comparison with the usual cost of consumer credit, and it is open to belief that some citizens regard postponement of tax payment as a fairly inexpensive form of "borrowing" the money for a few months to be put to other use. But there is no point in delaying the $85 payment by the government, and still less in losing it by default.

The municipalities do their best to point this out on tax notices and with special warnings. But, in their own interest hoping only to avoid last-minute rushes, since the full taxes in arrears will in the end be collected with interest anyway, they seem to be contending with one of those almost unexplainable perversities of human nature.

Fire Control

A YEAR-ROUND inspection and permit system of the sort recommended by Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland to control burning in connection with demolition, construction, clearing and the like in Saanich is eminently desirable, and not in that municipality alone but in all built-up districts.

Obviously no owner or contractor wants to damage nearby property in the course of such operations, even if doing his best to keep costs to a minimum. But the Saanich chief finds that without inspection before commencement, burning has in fact been carried on in an unsafe manner.

Firemen are the experts who can best pre-determine the risks and set the conditions, including how much protection should be laid on to guard a fire and keep it within suitable bounds until it is completely extinguished. Most people, as Chief Sutherland says, have no great knowledge of the range at which radiant heat can be hazardously effective.

Many citizens will be surprised to find that control of the kind recommended by the chief for his municipality has not previously been imposed throughout the year for large-scale burning, permits being required only between the beginning of May and the end of October. Certainly with the amount of demolition going on in the community to make way for new construction, and with fire so frequently being used to dispose of the wooden wreckage after the bulldozers have gone to work, the time is ripe now for the most careful regulation.

Reason for Love

MR. FANE: ... What must the Prime Minister feel like when every one of the Liberal members on that committee repudiated his choice of a flag.

Mr. Fane: Oh, that has been said.

Mr. Fane: That is something that is beyond understanding. It is beyond my understanding at least, and if it is beyond my understanding it is beyond the understanding of a great many other people. What does the Prime Minister think of that? Is he going to resign because his appointees on that committee turned him down? There were seven of them. They turned him down to a man and woman, every one of them. I believe that is a slap in the face for the Prime Minister whom they claim to love so much.

An hon. Member: Absence makes the heart grow fonder; they certainly must love him.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...

By TOM TAYLOR

I AM feeling perhaps a bit demoralized consequent on reading the view of a British commentator lecturing in Canada.

In the modern world, she says, anyone who can't speak at least two languages is obsolete.

I pretend to myself that two languages are within my reach, the English tongue I oft misuse and the Doric I oft misspell. But that is only to offset my linguistic deficiencies. Such duality doesn't count in her context.

Except for the odd French word or phrase, common to most people as in passing they pick up foreign words, I am as the lady said—obsolete.

The one sure comfort is that I am among the vast majority of this world's peoples. Her verdict is too sweeping. It sounds too intellectually high-brow also.

Not all parents can send their offspring to Paris to master the French language, either, as hers did.

But of course one doesn't need to go to Paris to become fluent in the French tongue, and I agree it would be felicitous if all Canadians could speak both the official languages of this country.

The drawback is that once acquired a tongue has to be used to stay alive; and most Canadians do not mix daily with their linguistic opposites. This visiting lecturer was sitting her remarks amidst the present divisive atmosphere of Canada. She was encouraged, she said, that English-Canadians are at last beginning to realize the problems of the French minority.

Sometimes I'm tempted to feel there are English-speaking problems equally to be appreciated. I am still in the dark, except for vague generalities, as to precisely in what nature the Canadian is suffering at the hands of the Canadian.

However, it should be a step toward national unity if all Canada were bilingual. This is most unlikely ever to be so and as I say the difficulty would be to exploit the dual tongues in perpetuity, for the acquired one would rust if not exercised. But individually a person could enrich his life by the literature of another language.

The English lecturer for example sees as the solution to our bilingual problems the setting up of bilingual schools all over Canada. This would have to work both ways, of course. I am intrigued for instance that the many demands voiced that English Canada should learn to speak French never contain the quid pro quo that French Canada should learn to speak English.

The emphasis seems to run only in one direction. And if one is obsolete nowadays unless one is bilingual then to be modern both sides will have to go back to school.

A good start might be made in Parliament, though, where daily both languages are spoken. Why not make it mandatory for MPs to be bilingual to qualify for election? Interestingly, too, we would see then who spoke in the acquired tongue in preference to his native idiom, and vice versa.

Quite by the way also but reassuring to the one-tongued person, after all, is the fact that very few national leaders—at the UN for example—seem to be bilingual. But especially today most of them, I feel sure, don't consider themselves obsolete.

expect under provocation from a Martin Luther King?

Dean Acheson has more than once had a wise word for American policy advisers and the American people, and his latest word about international affairs and morality is not before its time. There are too many theologians in the state department and among ranking officers. In the defence department whose policy proposals are governed more by blinkered righteousness than by tactical or strategic rightness.

There are a great many things and all of them good that can happen according to Americans. "Only in America." It is a commonplace to hear on "talk" television programs that "only in America" can one see the warm and living face of freedom speaking freely. A great many of the things that in other countries have never been absent from one's life or questioned in one's experience, are suddenly and surprisingly available "only in America." It is of course part of a naive pride that is admirable in itself but the ignorance on which it is based is considerably less excusable.

It is a fact, however, that "only in America" could expect to see the UN Security Council or General Assembly because they can be found in session only in America. The Americans have only themselves to blame. They have encouraged and frustrated the passions of the Cubans — and other exiles — and required from them neither discipline or responsibility. They have done this as a matter of policy but under the pressure of a doctrine that has always played a part in American affairs and from time to time leaves American governments chuntering unintelligibly before the white collar mob: Politics as passion.

It is a doctrine that has found advocates in high places. The obsessive John Foster Dulles took the U.S. into the Viet Nam mess under its influence and his own omniscience, and Senator Goldwater would have deepened the entanglement if he had won power.

When this same doctrine shows itself in action among lesser breeds without the law (Russians, Africans and Viet Nam non-Christians for example) the white collar mob cry hysterically for the withdrawal of every coast-guard from contaminating contacts.

The day the U.S. commissioner in Natchaoba county refused to hear little evidence against the rednecks of the county in the civil rights case, one of the most famous of the white collar hystericals, a newspaper owner, called for a breach of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union because of their criticism of the U.S. action in The Congo, their treatment of the Jews, and the mob violence against the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

"You can't deal with these people," said this man, who lives in a permanent political frenzy, directed against enemies at home and abroad (like the Kennedys, the Humphreys, the Russells and the Chases, with each bazooka blast given equal power.)

The white collar mob do not need to equate an incredible episode like the UN bombing, or the effrontery of the Mississippi affair, with offences by enemies, because anything done by enemies puts them outside the moral community and anything done by us is really done by the enemy within—in Natchaoba, for example, what can you

Immigration Grows

South African Influx

By STANLEY UKE from Cape Town

THIRTY-FIVE thousand whites have emigrated from African territories to South Africa in the last two years. They see South Africa as the last bastion of white rule on the African continent—and South Africa's Premier Dr. Verwoerd as the "white father" of all refugees from black independence.

Some of the new immigrants are vociferous in their admiration of Dr. Verwoerd's apartheid government. The quality they applaud most is its toughness.

The opposition political parties in South Africa have discovered to their dismay that the new immigrants, as they acquire citizenship, tend to vote for candidates of Dr. Verwoerd's Nationalist Party at parliamentary elections.

This contrasts sharply with the situation in 1948, when the Nationalist government halted the Smuts government's immigration scheme because, it is said, immigrants were being brought in, especially from Britain, to "swamp" the Afrikaners.

There has been a natural inclination in the past for immigrants, particularly English-speaking immigrants, to identify themselves with the opposition parties, because of the exclusivity of Afrikaner nationalism. Now the pattern is changing, because the Verwoerd government feels strong enough to admit and absorb them.

English-speaking immigrants from the African territories, often embittered, are sympathetic now towards apartheid. They are attracted to it because it seems to offer to them the maximum protection possible for whites who live among a black majority.

Another reason why many immigrants are now easily recruited for the Nationalist government is that, from the day of their arrival in the country, they are exhorted to become patriots, "true South Africans," loyal citizens; and the propaganda barrage is so intense that somehow patriotism becomes identified with voting for Dr. Verwoerd's Nationalist Party.

White emigration from the African territories has increased steadily during the past few years; in 1960, South Africa obtained only 1,337 white settlers from the other African countries; in 1961 the number jumped to 2,238; in 1962 the figure was 10,773; in 1963 it was 20,058; and in the first nine months of 1964 it was 13,555.

Since 1960, therefore, the position has altered considerably: 1960 was a year of unrest in South Africa, including the Sharpeville tragedy and a five-month state of emergency. South Africa, in fact, lost more whites than it gained in 1960: 8,789 came in from all sources (Africa, Europe, etc.), but 12,613 emigrated permanently.

In 1960 was South Africa's major year of unrest, the subsequent years were the years of unrest in other parts of Africa: chaos in The Congo, the threat of revived terrorism in Kenya, the pending dismemberment of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

What has happened in the past four years, therefore, is that many whites in Africa have reappraised the situation in an attempt to decide which country, if any, in Africa still holds out hope for the white man. The majority have decided that South Africa is this country.

Once here they profess themselves to be satisfied with conditions in South Africa, too. Certainly, there is at least a surface tranquillity and noticeable prosperity. The fact that there have been 150 political trials in South Africa during the past two years, resulting in 1,300 whites and non-whites being sentenced (45 to death, many to life imprisonment or long terms of imprisonment) appears not to perturb them.

Northern and Southern Rhodesia have provided South Africa with most of its white immigrants from Africa—15,000 last year, 10,500 in the first nine months of this year. Many of the Rhodesian immigrants are really South Africans, returning to the country of their birth. Kenya, Tanganyika and The Congo have supplied the rest of the immigrants from Africa.

If one takes a longer view of the immigration pattern one sees that, in 1918, the last year of the Smuts government, there were 35,631 immigrants and 7,534 emigrants, leaving a net gain in settlers of 28,097. The Nationalist government immediately suspended this state-aided immigration scheme and began to discourage immigration.

Immigration consequently soon began to tail off—and emigration from South Africa to increase. In 1950 and 1951, South Africa suffered a small net loss in immigration-emigration.

Thereafter, the number of immigrants increased gradually, until the Nationalist government felt that it was strong enough not to fear the political influence of the immigrants, and it could embark on its own state-aided immigration scheme.

This was a far cry from the days of the Smuts government, when Nationalist Party leaders, then in opposition, used to declare: "Broad will be taken out of the mouths of South Africans by the millions Field-Marshal Smuts wants to unload on our country from overseas. Is the man wanton or mad? ... We cannot have immigrants from countries who do not understand our color problem. Even though we sacrifice a certain measure of economic prosperity, we must do so to maintain white civilization."

Africa (especially Rhodesia) has provided more than half of all the immigrants who have emigrated to South Africa since 1961. In 1963, for instance, of 37,964 settlers, Africa yielded 20,058. Britain was the next biggest supplier in 1963 with 10,135.

British immigrants come to South Africa for different reasons. Usually, politics is not a factor, although some declare that they are escaping from Britain's "color problem."

The main reasons why Britons emigrate to South Africa, according to their own statements, are: to get away from the British climate, to enjoy an outdoor life, the sun and cheap fruit, to escape from the drudgery of housework (scores of British wives give this as their major reason), to escape British taxation, and to provide their children with "opportunities."

Some British immigrants have complained that South Africa does not quite come up to their expectations. They accuse officials of painting too rosy a picture of life here. It is sometimes difficult, they say, to find houses and well-paid jobs, and in certain respects the cost-of-living is higher. Also, some say they were not warned that in the government services bilingualism in English and Afrikaans is required.

The third important source of immigrants for South Africa is Western Europe. The Nationalist government has tried energetically to draw new settlers from "mother countries" besides Britain—that is, from Holland and Western Germany, and also from France, Italy, Greece, Spain and Portugal (although the powerful Dutch Reform Churches in South Africa are opposed to too much immigration from Catholic countries).

Generally speaking, therefore, the immigration position is reasonably satisfactory as far as the Nationalist government is concerned, except for the phenomenon of the "brain drain."

Steadily during the past 16 years of Nationalist government rule, many of South Africa's most talented citizens—university lecturers, scientists, doctors, professional men generally, teachers, businessmen—have packed up and left.

Disturbingly, a considerable number of them have stayed, openly and bluntly, that their reason for leaving is that they have no faith in the future of the country.

A NEWS item regarding the Queen's proposed visits to other countries in 1965 quite incorrectly states that "Ethiopia ... boasts a monarchy three times older than Britain's 1,000-year-old line." Haile Selassie claims direct descent from the biblical Queen of Sheba.

The British throne may be traced back to King David, who was promised that he should "never want a man" to sit upon the throne. A genealogical chart in Windsor Castle shows Queen Elizabeth's descent back to King David, through English, Scottish, Irish and Israeli ancestors.

A Suggestion

Would it be feasible to have an underground passage from the nearest point of St. Joseph's Hospital, to the door of their annex, which is really a splendid place. Patients going for special treatment to the main hospital have to cross the street in wheelchairs or walk with nurses in cold wet weather, and doctors and nurses are coming and going all day long, while as one knows the traffic is very heavy around this part of town and very dangerous to slow-moving patients. Having to be brought by wheelchair, that route is not safe for anyone, old or young, to have to take that chance when ill.

Christian Act

This letter perhaps is appropriate at this season of the year. In 1918 during the fighting in the First World War, ground sometimes changed hands more than once and, on territory recaptured from the Germans, we (I was with the 49th Battalion, Canadians) would come across mounds with neat little wooden crosses on them bearing the inscription "Ein Engländer."

I remember seeing one of these crosses, broken by one shell-fire, that had been carefully put together again and bound with wire. As I surveyed that cross I felt that the German soldier who had mended it was a Christian in the truest sense of the word.

It goes without saying that our burying parties, whenever possible, put crosses, inscribed "Unknown German Soldier" on the graves of the enemy dead.

Grateful

The response given to us nursing orderlies at the Veterans' Hospital, in our appeal for public support for our wage demands, has been extremely wonderful, to say the least. I am sure every orderly at our hospital would wish to give thanks to the many citizens and various organizations that are giving us help in accomplishing an almost impossible task.

For fair and objective coverage of our views, your paper is most deserving of our many thanks.

For their support and sympathy expressed so many ways, our fellow-employees at the Veterans' Hospital, many of whom are as bad or worse a position than ourselves, also deserve our warmest gratitude.

With such support standing behind us, I don't see how we can but ultimately succeed in getting a decent living wage more in line with that being received by our fellows in our two sister hospitals.

Death Sentence

Re "No Hanging in U.K." I submit the following with apologies to G. and S. of immortal memory:

When I was young I got a term To Oskalla Pee from a justice stern. I'd stolen a car and killed a cop.

So he said: "You'll swing. From the Top, Top, Top!"

But I got a guy, who'd done his turn, As junior clerk in a lawyer's firm, He'd served so well That now you see, I walk the streets as a "pay-roll-ee."

So boys and lads if you want some fun Go steal a car and a loaded gun. Just rob and rape Till the break of day, And you'll be the leader of the "Me-fay."

Garments Last Six Months

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP)—It appears 11 girdles, 11 panties, five dresses and one robe last just six months.

It was six months ago that these items were stolen from a Caldwell dress shop. Tuesday, the shop reported the same goods, in the same size, were stolen again.

De Tremaudan

Indians on Island Poor Bead Buyers

Vancouver Island Indians are an "extremely poor" market for ornamental bead seller Desire de Tremaudan, 4444 Patricia Bay Highway.

Mr. Tremaudan, who says he is Canada's largest importer of colorful beads, believes the greatest market for his product is among the Indians of northern Canada.

A Hercules can carry 95 men or four jeeps, four trailers and just under 4,500 pounds of filler cargo, a total of 37,000 pounds.

For instance the white beads will bring only $2.50 a pound while the red are at a premium $5 a pound. Beads which are shaded green and blue cost less than those shaded red or orange.

He estimates there are about 10,000 beads to a pound, although they do come in various sizes.

He imports his beads in bulk about 1,200 pounds at a time from Italy and countries in central Europe. They come in about 125 different shades.

EXOTIC PLANTS
Apart from his bead activities, Mr. de Tremaudan's main interest is growing exotic plants from seeds. One of these is known as Dracaena, a five-foot tropical plant usually only seen in greenhouses. He is growing it outside.

He also has a 25-foot eucalyptus tree growing in his garden.

FARMERS DUCK
Bullets Fly In Israel

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—A new clash erupted on the tense Israeli-Syrian border Tuesday during which Israeli farmers ducked Syrian bullets for 2½ hours, an Israeli Army spokesman reported.

In Damascus, a Syrian spokesman announced that Syria lodged an urgent complaint with the United Nations armistice commission that Israel had violated the armistice agreement.

No casualties were reported on the Israeli side and farmers using armored tractors completed sowing despite fire from four fortified Syrian positions.

Courtroom Parade

Term in Prison Helped By Ignored Summons

A bad driving record and ignoring a summons to appear in court helped set a four-month jail term Tuesday for a Saanich man.

James Etter, of Beaver Lake Road, pleaded guilty to two charges of driving while disqualified. The offences occurred last July in Saanich and Victoria.

He failed to appear in court when summoned shortly after ward and disappeared until last week when he was arrested.

Magistrate William Ostler was told Etter's driving record included speeding and other offences back to 1958 for which his licence had been suspended several times.

"Such contumacious conduct leaves me no choice," commented Magistrate Ostler as he sentenced Etter.

Another youth's six-month sentence was suspended by the magistrate who said he was satisfied actions that led to his arrest were "completely atypical."

College student Philip E. Whonock, 20, of 2408 Foul Bay Road, had pleaded guilty earlier to breaking into an apartment bedroom in which a man and wife were sleeping.

A pre-sentence report confirmed the youth's claim he had been drinking heavily earlier and regretted the incident.

Two 16-year-olds were transferred to adult from juvenile court and appeared before Magistrate Ostler.

Stacey Harris, 1120 McClure, pleaded guilty to slugging his 15-year-old sister because she had interfered "between me and my brood."

The quote was given to city detective Lyle Somers who questioned the youth after the assault.

The sister suffered a cut eyebrow, face and knee bruises for which she was treated in hospital.

A pre-sentence report was ordered by the court for Jan. 5 by Magistrate Ostler, who denied a defence request for the stocky youth to be held at the juvenile detention home rather than adult jail.

Damage to the car was estimated at $700 with another $10 to the pole.

Leaving accident scenes cost two men fines. Thomas N. Pellow, 2425 Dryde, drove away after his car struck a parked vehicle on Balmoral Dec. 11. He was fined $150 and a licence suspension will be recommended.

Albert Anderson, 1305 Rockland, drove off after his car had the same sort of accident. But the other car's owner pursued and caught him 20 blocks away.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said police were told by the pursuing driver he had been verbally abused by Anderson when they stopped.

He was fined $250 but given use of his licence for business purposes only during the next four months after court was told he would not be able to work without using his car. Damage totalled $150.

Cuba Received $700,000,000

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries poured about $700,000,000 into Cuba between 1959 and 1963 to keep its economy afloat, a United Nations report disclosed Tuesday.

The per capita aid was $23 a year, considerably higher than U.S. economic aid to Latin American countries.

Training for UN Role

QOR Takes Lessons In Stowing Jeeps

By DON GAIN

Men of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, at Work Point, are learning how to pack jeeps, trucks and trailers into RCAF aircraft and still leave room for themselves.

As standby battalion for the United Nations forces the QOR may be en route for Cyprus in March.

In the meantime the battalion is being made ready for service anywhere in the world.

PLANES FLOW IN
Between 700 and 800 men from Work Point have been travelling to Patricia Bay airport this week for instruction under the guidance of Major Len Cross.

An RCAF Yukon aircraft from Trenton, Ont., and a Hercules from Nanaimo, Alta., were flown in Monday for three days and two nights of continuous training in the loading of personnel and equipment.

From Trenton came Ptl. Lt. Charles Sprague, air movements operations officer, and FO Sgt. Moondi, mobility team leader.

Day and night the men, two companies at a time, go through the stowing of vehicles and baggage until it becomes routine.

"These boys are good," said instructor Sgt. Ivan McKay, RCAF, of Trenton, as he watched Sgt. Jack De Bruine, QOR, of 924 Beadley give signals to his men who were unloading jeeps from the Yukon aircraft.

With the help of two elevators the vehicles are raised to the door of the aircraft and driven on board. In unloading the operation is reversed.

EXACT SPOT
The difficult part is driving the jeeps and trucks into the exact spot required on board, and then driving them off the aircraft onto the elevator, which has no safety barriers.

The trick is for the driver to keep his eye on the man who gives the signals. Not doing so could lead to trouble.

"They're getting better every day," said Sgt. De Bruine. "The first day it took all morning to load four jeeps. The next day they did it in 40 minutes."

Standard load for a Yukon is four jeeps, four trailers and just under 4,500 pounds of filler cargo, a total of 37,000 pounds.

A Hercules can carry 95 men or four jeeps, four trailers and just under 4,500 pounds of filler cargo, a total of 37,000 pounds.

Loads on both aircraft can be varied according to need. The Yukon, fully loaded and carrying maximum fuel, weighs 35,000 pounds, the Hercules 36,000.

The men are taught to strap down their vehicles and baggage. "We are training the battalion to look after themselves and their equipment, loading and unloading," said Major Cross.

Unexpected Jackpot Costs 'Winner' $30

LONDON — When James McCall, 50, put an Italian coin into the shilling slot of a subway ticket-vending machine he hit the jackpot. It poured out a torrent of tickets and sixpence coins.

A nearby policeman called a cashier, who opened the machine and pulled out the foreign coin. "That did it," he said.

Value at that point of the pile of tickets and sixpences was $11.75.

Hailed into court on a charge of attempted theft, McCall said he only wanted to get across the city.

A subway official, however, said foreign coins were often used to defraud the subway, and McCall was fined $30.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. — Rev. J. B. Mutchmor, of Toronto, a former moderator of the United Church of Canada said the liquor, beer and wine industries should be nationalized and liquor companies should be forced to pay damages of victims of drinking drivers.

NEW YORK — Singer Judy Garland and her oldest actress-daughter, Liza Minnelli, met Miss Garland's two youngest children, daughter Lorna, 12, and son Joseph, 9, at the airport here when they were reunited for the holidays. Lorna and Joseph had been on the West Coast.

Firemen's Dispute

Court Order Halts Railway Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Southern Railway system was granted a temporary order Tuesday night restraining firemen from continuing the "quickie" strike launched against the railway earlier in the day.

The order was issued in Columbus, Ga. by District Judge J. Robert Elliott who set a further hearing for Jan. 7.

The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen struck because the railway began running some yard and freight trains without firemen.

J. W. Jennings, vice-president of the union, said the strike was 100 per cent effective but a railway spokesman disputed this, saying only some passenger trains were cancelled.

"Freight service and freight yard operations were largely unaffected with supervisory officers of the railroad taking over the duties of men who did not report for work because of the firemen's union picket lines."

Passengers at some points were being given bus tickets to continue their journeys.

New Year's Day Receptions

Tradition Greet 1965

Male residents of Greater Victoria will welcome the New Year Friday at traditional receptions throughout the area.

● Lieutenant-Governor Pearce expects to shake hands with more than 1,500 at Government House between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

● Mayor R. B. Wilson and Victoria city council will receive in the council chamber at City Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. Guests are asked to enter by Pandora Avenue.

● Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) officers and sergeants will hold receptions in their respective messes in the Bay Street Armoury from 10 to 11 a.m.

● Officers and sergeants of 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, will entertain in their messes from 9 to 10 a.m.

Victorians Prefer Island For New Year's Holiday

Victorians are spending New Year's on the Island.

Transportation companies, busy prior to Christmas, find there's no need for extra service for the New Year's holiday.

R.C. Ferries and Washington State Ferries will be on normal schedule for the holiday, so will Vancouver Island Coach Lines, except that extra buses will be used if necessary.

Air Canada reports little call for New Year's travel, but some extra sections are being added, mostly to accommodate people returning from Christmas trips.

● Officers of HMCS Naden wardroom will receive from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Chiefs will be at home in their mess from 11:30 to 12:30 p.m. and petty officers from noon to 1 p.m.

● HMCS Malahat wardroom will entertain at Dockyard Officers' Club from 10 to 11 a.m. Chiefs and petty officers of HMCS Malahat will receive at the Esquimalt squadron of the navy's sailing association at Munro Head from 11 a.m. to noon.

● The officers' mess of the 5th (B.C.) Inf. Med. Battery, Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery, will be open from 10 a.m. to noon. Sergeants of the battery will receive in their mess from 10 to 11 a.m.

● Bishop Remi De Roo, Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria, will receive at the rectory of St. Andrew's Cathedral, 740 View Street, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Civil Rights Slayings

New Evidence Uncovered

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A federal grand jury reconvening here Jan. 11 will get new evidence if it again probes an expected midsummer killing of the three civil rights workers in Mississippi.

Government sources confirmed Tuesday existence of the new evidence, but declined to elaborate on it.

Federal district Judge Harold Cox, in an order filed in court Tuesday, directed the 23-member grand jury to report Jan. 11 to "further investigate such matters as shall be presented."

The grand jury is the same one which met at Biloxi in October and heard evidence in the case compiled by the FBI. The jury, which includes one Negro, declined then to return any indictments in connection with the triple slaying.

Cox's order made no specific mention of the slaying. However, the U.S. justice department earlier this month asked him to reconvene the jury to probe the killings. The judge's order noted the reconvening was "requested and recommended by the U.S. attorney for the southern district of Mississippi."

CALLED IT HEARSAY

The FBI arrested 21 persons Dec. 4 on charges arising from the killings. But the charges were dropped when U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter of Meridian refused to accept an alleged confession as evidence at a preliminary hearing.

The alleged confession was hearsay, she said. The FBI said it was obtained from one of the 21 in November — nearly a month after the grand jury met at Biloxi.

DISAPPEARED

Justice department lawyer Robert Owen had sought to have the 21 white men arrested Dec. 4 held for grand jury action. He halted production of evidence after Miss Carter's ruling and she ordered the men freed.

The three workers—Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, a Meridian Negro — disappeared June 21 near Philadelphia. They had gone there from Meridian to investigate a burned Negro church.

BODIES FOUND

Their bodies were found Aug. 4 beneath an earthen dam, capping an intensive search by sailors, FBI agents and Mississippi authorities.

Of the 21 men arrested by the FBI, 19 were charged with conspiracy and the other two with having failed to report information on the killing. The FBI accused 10 of the 21 as having taken part in the slaying.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will provide $40,000 worth of relief assistance through the Canadian Red Cross Society for cyclone and tidal wave damage in India and Ceylon where 1,400 died Dec. 22.

Six Whites Freed In Negro's Death

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Federal indictments charging six white men with conspiring to injure and oppress Negroes were thrown out of court Tuesday by a U.S. district judge.

The indictments grew out of the slaying of Emmett Penn, a Washington, D.C., Negro educationist who was shot to death on the night of July 11, Penn, a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army reserve, was returning to Washington with two other army reserve officers from Fort Benning where they attended a training course. Two of the six men, Cecil Myers and Joseph Howard Sims, earlier were tried and acquitted in a state court on murder charges in the slaying of Penn. The remaining four are Denver Willis Phillips, George Hampton Turner, Herbert Guest and James S. Lackey.

Lackey still faces a state charge of murder in connection with Penn's death. The six men were identified by FBI agents as active in Ku Klux Klan affairs.

Italy's Marxist President Pledges NATO Support

ROME (AP) — Socialist Giuseppe Saragat was sworn in as president of Italy Tuesday.

Two hours after, Christian Democrat Premier Aldo Moro's centre-left government voted to submit its resignation.

Moro went to the presidential palace and submitted the resignations but Saragat asked him and the cabinet to remain.

Close Brush For Two In Collision

LAKE COWICHAN—Two men had a close brush with death Tuesday morning, escaping with only minor injuries when a tractor-trailer unit and a car collided on the Youbou road.

One of the two, the driver of the big trailer unit, jumped from its cab only seconds before the unit plunged down a 100-foot, snow-covered embankment.

Police said Ron Martin of Duncan was driving the Arrow Transfer tractor-trailer unit toward Lake Cowichan from the B.C. Forest Products mill at Youbou.

The large vehicle, loaded with chips, collided with a car driven toward Youbou by Luigi Crucchiola of Duncan.

Mr. Crucchiola received minor facial cuts and Mr. Martin was slightly injured as he jumped clear just after the collision and just before the unit went down the bank.

The trailer unit came to rest on its side at the base of the bank.

Tire Blows, Car Flips Into Ditch

A Sidney man and his wife were taken to Rest Haven Hospital after their car blew a tire and flipped into the ditch on the Patricia Bay Highway near Island View Road Tuesday.

Chester L. Miller and Mrs. Miller, 2804 Mainwaring, in satisfactory condition last night, were expected to be released today.

The car landed tight against a roadside fence.

A witness said that after the right rear tire blew the driver swerved to avoid three young girls walking along the side of the road.

However, the bitter rivalries of the 12-day presidential election left Moro's Christian Democrats deeply divided and dangerously estranged from the Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans of the government coalition.

Saragat, the first Marxist ever to become president of Italy and former foreign secretary, told Parliament he would be "a president above politics... a serene moderator."

DEFENDS NATO

Although Communist votes were decisive in his election Monday, he staunchly defended the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Peace which today is guaranteed by the balance of forces—an equilibrium to which Italy contributes by participating in the North Atlantic alliance—must become inviolable through a progressive, simultaneous and controlled disarmament."

Gold Index Hits New Top

TORONTO (CP)—Gold provided all the excitement. The gold index, a 12-stock barometer of the group's health climbed 4.65 to a record 176.28. Investors are speculating that the price will increase from its level of $35 (U.S.) an ounce.

Dome led the section higher with an advance of 1 to 42. Campbell Red Lake was up 3/4 to 23 1/2. Giant Yellowknife 1/2 to 17. Preston, 50 cents to $6.75 and Macassa 25 cents to $2.80.

Rio Algon added 1/2 at 11 1/2 in base metals while Great Plains was off 1/2 to 10 1/2 in Western oils.

Papers Decline

MONTREAL (CP)—Papers led the decline as stocks traded narrowly lower.

Great Lakes lost 1/2 to 25 1/2 and Star 1/2 to 28 1/2. Southern lost 1/2 to 33 1/2. Moore Corp. picked up 1/2 to 59 1/2 and Chemcell 1/2 to 18 1/2. CPR advanced 1/2 to 59 1/2. Trans Canada Pipe Line declined 1/2 to 39 1/2.

Boost For Mines

VANCOUVER (CP)—Industrials were mixed and mines mainly higher in quiet trading.

MacMillan eased to 36 1/2 and Woodward 1 1/2 to 10 1/2. Rothman at 20 1/2. Union Carbide at 26 1/2 and Trans Canada at 39 1/2 added fractions.

Silver Standard rose to 1.01 in mines while Galaxy was active at 42 1/2. Arlington was unchanged at 42 1/2. New Cronin Babine shot ahead to 31.

Trans Canada Pipelines

U.S. Outlet Sought

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonial Business Editor

Trans Canada Pipelines has renewed its application to the U.S. Federal Power Commission to build a 1,000-mile 36-inch loop line south of the Great Lakes that would serve Canada at Sault Ste. Marie.

The line, which would cost $200,000,000, was rejected on technical grounds by the U.S. regulatory body a few weeks ago, but Trans Canada hopes that changes in its application will remove the objections.

Trans Canada is also reported by the Oilweek Magazine to have refrained from opposing the Union Gas request to import Texas gas into Canada, even though this gas would be at the expense of Trans Canada's own market.

It is suggested that if this market in Canada is opened to U.S. gas, Trans Canada will have a better chance of selling gas to U.S. consumers along its proposed pipe south of the Great Lakes.

Sort of quid pro quo?

L. G. Greenwood
CANADIAN IMPERIAL BANK OF COMMERCE has announced the appointment of L. G. Greenwood as Chief General Manager.

Mr. Greenwood was born in Brainerd, Sask., and joined the Bank in Regina in 1938. Following wartime service with the RCAF, he held a succession of branch and Head Office posts before becoming manager at Seattle and later of Toronto main branch.

Mr. Greenwood previously served as Regional General Manager of the International Region and Deputy Chief General Manager.

U.S. Losses Sharp

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street's hopes for a traditional year-end rally faded as the stock market took its sharpest loss in nearly three weeks.

Steels declined when it was reported President Johnson was concerned about the rise in prices for galvanized sheet.

The most active stock was Brunswick, which rose 3/8 to 8 1/2 on 187,500 shares.

Some of the gold mining stocks continued to attract buyers.

False IDs Minors' Key to Drinks

By CHARLES LA VESTU
Identification cards bought or forged are helping minors obtain liquor illegally.

In a no-names survey among Victoria teen-agers, The Daily

Colonist found this is one of many ways by which Victoria minors and teenagers obtain liquor that is forbidden them by law.

Saanich Grover Says:

B.C. Could Produce All Its Own Ornamental Plants

By BOB DONAHUE

Nurseryman John Tol, 4649 West Saanich Road, believes it may not be necessary for B.C. to import ornamental plants in the near future.

Mr. Tol, whose nursery is capable of propagating 200,000 ornamental plants a year, says there is plenty of room in the Saanich Peninsula "for hundreds of ornamental nurseries."

"If we have the right men we can grow the plants. We have a good climate and lots of room."

SAVES SPACE
His own nursery is an example of the space-saving type which are common in Holland and England.

Instead of using large tracts of land, concentrated gardening is carried out on a small area, with all available space being used.

In his 50 by 15-foot greenhouse, he propagates cuttings of 50,000 plants at one time.

ROOM FOR MORE
There is room for another 250,000 plants outside in shade houses and in the open.

Mr. Tol predicts that in 10 years B.C. will be self-sufficient in the ornamental plant growing industry.

Mr. Tol started out 13 years

ago with a handful of azalea seeds which he brought to Victoria from his native Holland.

Emergency Wards Busier Than in '63

More than 37,000 persons were treated in emergency wards of Victoria's two major hospitals during 1964.

Almost 22,000 people have been treated in the Royal Jubilee emergency department during the year for an average of 55 to 60 cases a day.

St. Joseph's Hospital recorded 15,215 cases for the year to date which is already 200 cases over last year's total. It will be an average of about 42 cases a day for the year.

The projected total cases for 1964 at the Royal Jubilee shows there will be more than 2,000 cases above the 1963 figure.

RENOVATIONS
The Jubilee emergency department recently underwent complete renovation to enlarge the area to accommodate 10 beds.

The emergency department at St. Joseph's will be renovated and enlarged by next spring.

Possession Charge Withdrawn

A charge of possession of safe-breaking tools against a Victoria man was withdrawn in city magistrate's court Tuesday.

Robert G. Gibb, 24, had been charged Nov. 28 after police arrested him near Montague Bridge on Jan. 21, 1964.

The roof of the china store had been the scene of a chase of two men earlier in the evening by a plucky janitor.

A charge of attempted breaking and entering was laid against John Norman L. Smith, 28, also of Victoria, in connection with the same incident.

Smith was tried earlier this month and judgment was reserved by Magistrate William Oetler, until Jan. 4.

Funeral Offer Renewed

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) —For the third year in a row, the Burlington Free Press is offering a free funeral to anyone who registers in advance his or her intention to drive after drinking on New Year's Eve—and is killed doing it. Applicants for free funerals must register with the newspaper Dec. 31. There were no claimants for funerals the first two years.

CANADA'S WINES OF DISTINCTION

licences, borrowed, altered or purchased forgeries.

Victoria teen-agers said they are also able to obtain liquor by lying about their age, having their parents buy it or vouch for their age, by phoning a bootlegger, having a friend buy it for them or by borrowing, and in extreme cases stealing, some-one else's identification card.

One minor found that it is much easier to obtain beer from the liquor store than it is from a beer parlor.

"Bartenders and waiters are fined $300 each and the hotel $1,000 if they get caught selling it to us, but liquor vendors seem to be immune from punishment," he said.

Another said that bootleggers were getting scarce. "At one time I knew of half a dozen numbers I could call to get my booze, but since that new police chief has been in office, I'm lucky if I can find one still in operation," he said. One former teen-ager said that a year or two ago anyone with the right contact and between $5 and $15 was able to get hold of a genuine-looking identification card.

"I'm 18, but look 26," another boasted. "I just walk into the vendor's or a pub and no one has ever questioned me yet." "I have it easier than that," another said. "I go to the beer parlor with my folks and if they question me, my father tells them where to get off."

One girl said: "Whenever my boy friend and I go out and I know we are going for a few drinks, I borrow my sister's ID card. I always carry around a few letters addressed to her so if the waiter doesn't believe I am she, I pull these out."

The prevalent attitude among the teen-agers interviewed was: "I walk in as if I own the place, sit down and hope no one will ask how old I am."

Merchants Unhappy

Chaotic Store Hours Attacked

Unless there is provincial control over store closing hours, B.C. could become a "shopless" replica of Eastern Canadian and U.S. Arab bazaars," B.C. Division of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada feels.

In a brief which Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell has promised to take to the cabinet, the merchants' association expresses concern for the chaos in store closing hours, a situation which shows signs of worsening.

REGULAR HOURS
The brief says that a B.C. survey shows that 91.5 per cent of the merchants are opposed to unregulated shopping hours.

Of these, 91.1 per cent are in favor of maintaining 6 p.m. closing with 9 p.m. on Fridays; 81.4 favor full-day closing, and 66 per cent favor Monday closing.

G. R. Merrill, spokesman for the merchants, said that tourists would welcome province-wide Monday closing. At present it is possible for a tourist to make successive stopovers in towns which close Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. One town actually closes Saturday.

Russian People Given Present

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet regime has announced a new year's present for the Russian people—an extra day off.

The Council of Ministers, said Monday workers will get paid holidays Jan. 1-3. The normal practice has been to make Jan. 1 a holiday as well as the following Sunday, the normal day off.

The brief points out that municipalities around Vancouver have passed bylaws which show a flagrant denial of the intent of the Municipal Act. This trend has now spread to Victoria through constant provocation and pressure by minority groups and individuals who for the most part are oriented to Eastern Canada and the U.S.

Mr. Merrill said that the 55,000 individuals supported by the retail trade could be faced with split shifts and evening work because of unregulated hours. He said that wide-open shopping could only lead to higher prices as the result of increased overhead and use of less experienced staff.

"The cost of living is at an all-time high and it makes more sense for retailers to seek ways and means to increase efficiency and thereby reduce or at least hold the price line rather than aping Eastern Canadian and U.S. gimmicks," Mr. Merrill said.

Presenting the brief to Mr. Campbell were Ray E. Hunt, general manager of the merchants; R. D. Newcombe, president, and Robert Thompson, director.

VIVISECTION

OPINIONS OF FAMOUS PEOPLE

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

Atrocities are not less atrocities when they occur in laboratories and are called medical research.

MAHATMA GANDHI

Vivisection, in my opinion, is the blackest of all the black crimes that man is at present committing against God and His fair creation. It ill becomes us to invoke in our daily prayers the blessings of God, the compassionate, if we in turn will not practice elementary compassion towards our fellow creatures.

LEWIS CARROLL

Forbid the day when vivisection shall be practiced in every college and school, and when the man of science, looking forth over a world which will then own no other sway than his, shall exult in the thought that he has made of this fair earth, if not a heaven for man, at least a hell for animals.

CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

(Ex-Conservative, Ex-Ambassador to Italy, and author of numerous books and magazine articles)

It is difficult to entertain a warm feeling for a "medical man" who can strap an unanesthetized dog on a table, cut its vocal cords, and spend an interesting day—or week—slowly eviscerating or dismembering it . . . I suppose that the researchers do not deny this themselves—they claim that despite the wholesale bloody experimentation on animals, the only real proof of the drugs found by the chemists or the operating techniques suggested by the experimentation of animals, must be in the end verified by trying them on human subjects.

SAMPLES OF EXPERIMENTS PERFORMED

1. Animals run to death in revolving drums.
2. Piecemeal destruction of a dog's brain—the object of the experiment being to provide data for use with patients whose brain has been withdrawn from the skull by suction.
3. Animals tied to a restraining board and left until they died.

South Africa Gains Draw

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Led by Rhodesian Colin Bland, who scored a splendid 144 not out, South Africa fought back to earn a creditable draw against England on a rain-ravaged last day of the second cricket Test here Tuesday. England won the first Test by an innings and 11 runs.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

One thing that became clearly evident to us during the past year is that Vancouver Island has enough timber and enough recreation land to keep everyone happy for many, many years to come.

It is the timberland that ensures this happy thought. The key is the use of these timberlands, and during the past year tremendous strides have been made in the shared use of Vancouver Island forest lands.

These forest lands ensure ample hunting territory just about forever, with the sustained yield policy not only ensuring a continued forest crop, but also continued grazing areas for elk, deer and grouse.

So long as the public access to forest lands is maintained and improved in some cases—restricted access during non-operating hours is all that can be expected in some areas—Vancouver Island will have plenty of fine hunting and fishing areas.

Rivers and lakes within forestlands provide plenty of fishing water where access is allowed during fishing seasons. Pheasant shooting may soon become a thing of the past, except in private preserves where paid pheasant hunting privileges may be established.

Urban sprawl, massive housing developments, are gobbling up Vancouver Island agricultural lands all too fast. There are far too few open areas left for pheasant shooters, and where there are municipalities like Central Saanich and North Cowichan make regulations which make it almost impossible to hunt in the few areas left.

Access to the seafloor on this island is still a matter of very grave concern.

But forest lands we have plenty of and in years to come these forest lands will be the only real outdoor playground left. Vancouver Islanders with their huge forest industry will be among the world's most favored for outdoor activities.

The complete northern half of Vancouver Island is one huge forest reserve divided between several big companies, all of which now have a developing public use and access policy.

In the mid-island Seaward Forest and Strathcona Park will continue to provide outdoor activities.

The Ash River-Sproat Lake-Elsie Lake area, the Franklin River area to Bamfield, The Nitinat area to Lake Cowichan, Northwest Bay timberlands, and the Nanaimo Lakes area connecting with Nitinat, Shaw Creek and Cowichan Lake area are all timberlands with vast recreational assets upon which progress is never likely to tread too heavily.

Copper Canyon in the Chemainus area and the big timber holdings between Jordan River, Port Renfrew and Shawnigan Lake form another big timber-recreation land.

Sooke area is another forest area, but it is also the area where public access is developing most slowly.

Only a very few years ago all these forest areas mentioned were inaccessible to the average outdoorsman. In fact very few of us really understood the vast recreational potential of Vancouver Island contained within the locked gates of logging companies.

Now these gates are being unlocked—some on weekends only, some all the time, some during all non-operating hours, some to hunters only, some to fishermen, rockhounds, berry pickers and nature lovers—and the assets of our forestlands are being shared by everyone who cares to use them.

The bigger companies are even creating campsites and park developments for use of the public within their forestlands or timber reserves.

The past year was one of great advances in access to Vancouver Island's forestlands. More than 200 miles of logging roads built by six different timber companies and the provincial highways department opened up a brand new half of Vancouver Island.

More companies came into the hunter access plan and more companies extended to general public access what had been only fish and game access.

Perhaps another year will see fish and game clubs able to persuade all companies to open their forestlands for general public access. That is the ultimate aim of the fish and game program.

Most pleasant surprise to us this year came when a representative of Pacific Logging, a subsidiary of the CPR, phoned us on the last week of hunting and said that company didn't want to see hunters lose out on its hunting areas just because fish and game gatekeepers weren't available.

So the company opened the area to general public access that weekend, which could indicate a trend.

Careful there trainer, that leg is pure gold. At least it must seem so to alling Alabama quarterback Joe Namath, who has been given $389,000 offer to play professional football with New York Jets. Alabama and Texas play in Orange Bowl New Year's night.—(AP)

CHICAGO (AP)—Fullback Brian Piccolo of Wake Forest, U.S. colleges leading scorer and ground gainer this year, was signed by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League Tuesday.

Piccolo, who was not drafted by either the NFL or the American Football League, last season rushed 1,044 yards on 252 tries for a 4.14 average. He scored 17 touchdowns and kicked nine extra points for a total of 111 points.

For Patterson Fight

Chualo Works Hard

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brawny, George Chualo, Canadian heavyweight champion, and manager Irving Ungerman are taking the big gamble and "blowing more than $10,000" on training for a fight that might make George challenger for the world crown.

Ungerman of Toronto, in New York briefly, explained: "Chualo's fight at Madison Square Garden with Floyd Patterson isn't scheduled till Feb. 1; but he's already been training near Toronto for six weeks."

Pilot Irving-chunky, black-haired and youngish appearing added, "and we'll shift the training quarters in the New York area on Jan. 11, when we pitch camp at Kitchener's Country Club up in the Catskill mountains."

At the Huntington Golf Club, outside Toronto, the bull-shoofed, erudite dark-haired Chualo has been grooming for six weeks and boxing for the past three weeks, Ungerman said.

Patterson of Marlboro, N.Y., former two-time heavyweight champion, is favored at 2-1 in the betting for his 12-round fight with the 27-year-old Toronto slugger. Patterson will be 30 next Monday.

Grid Kings Easy Winners

Lions Canada's Team of '64

By Canadian Press

Sports editors and sports-casters put the finger today on British Columbia Lions as the outstanding Canadian team of 1964. The Grey Cup champions made it easily in the 30th annual Canadian Press year-end sports poll.

The voters were intrigued by the outstanding success of the gold medal-winning Olympic pair-boat team of Roger Jackson and George Hungerford and placed them second in a tight fit ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions the last three years.

There wasn't much doubt in the selectors' minds about the Lions, who finally went all the way after 11 frustrating years in Canadian pro football. Thirteen other teams were mentioned, but they received scant notice from the selectors.

PICKED FIRST BY 75

The final tally showed the Lions, 34-24 victors over the defending champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the late-November game, with 324 points on 75 first-place choices, 40 seconds and 13 thirds. The 1-2-3 placings were computed on a basis of three points for a first-place ballot, two for second and one for third.

The Jackson-Hungerford pair received 180 points and the Leafs 154. From there in, the point totals ranged from 41 received by Lyall Dagg's Canadian and International curling championship rink from Vancouver to the one point each received by the Tiger-Cats and the Canadian equestrian team.

Toronto Marlboros, Memorial Cup champions and tabbed by some experts as probably the finest junior hockey club the country has known, was fifth with 42 points. Next with 34 points was the Olympic gold medal-winning Canadian bobsled crew captained by Vic Emery of Montreal.

Others receiving votes included: Canada's Olympic track and hockey teams, the summer Olympic team, the junior lacrosse champion Oshawa Green Gaels and the senior lacrosse Bideholders Vancouver Carlings and Toronto East York Argos, Canadian intermediate football champions.

Rowers Share Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Roger Jackson and George Hungerford may never row again as a pairs team, but they're still reaping awards for their moment of glory last October at Tokyo.

The two University of British Columbia students, surprise winners of a gold medal in rowing pairs at the Olympics, Tuesday were named co-winners of the Lou Marsh Trophy.

The award, in memory of the late Lou E. Marsh, a former sports editor of the Toronto Star, is presented annually to Canada's top athlete—amateur or professional, male or female.

CANT GO ON

Hungerford and Jackson, two sparses from Canada's right-oared crew who were the most unlikely Olympic winners, may have to end their short career as a team, however, because Jackson can't afford to go on.

"It's simple," says Hungerford. "Roger hasn't a bean to his name. That means he'll probably have to start working and that will be the end of rowing."

Hungerford, from Vancouver, is an aspiring lawyer in the fourth year of an arts course. Jackson, a graduate of the University of Western Ontario, is studying in UBC for a master's degree in physical education.

If they can stay together, and can afford to make the trip, the boys will take part in the Henley Royal Regatta next summer at London, England.

'Low' Thief Lifts Highest Award

An authentic replica of the Victoria Cross, the British Commonwealth's highest military decoration, was stolen Tuesday from a corridor outside the provincial legislative gallery.

It was recently hung on a plaque in the corridor to highlight a two-year-old display of photographs of British Columbians who won the Victoria Cross during the First and Second World Wars.

The copy, described as "a very good replica" of the rare Victoria Cross, was obtained by the government from a city collector's store for about $15 or $20.

Night Freezing

Cold Spell Will Continue

There was no let-up in slight Tuesday night to the current cold spell which is bringing frequent snow showers and freezing temperatures overnight to the Greater Victoria area.

Outlook at least into Thursday will be mostly cloudy, partial clearing at times, some snow showers and generally cold with night-time temperatures between 25 and 32 and daytime temperatures between 35 and 38, said weatherman William MacKie.

Another storm moving eastward across the Pacific could bring a temporary moderation Thursday night or Friday morning but it was still too far away to predict what it would do, he said.

The threat of a salt shortage for winter road work loomed here Tuesday as the provincial highways department's supplies dwindled and orders for more salt were late in arriving.

Some salt orders were cut off by floods in California and Oregon and a 7,000-ton salt barge headed for this area was delayed at Portland.

COMING BY RAIL

A highways department spokesman said the supplies were getting low here but that there was "no danger" of them running out. More salt is on the way by rail from Eastern Canada, he said.

About a boxcar of salt was left Tuesday at the Saanich and Esquimalt district's yard at Langford.

The only major highway link closed by the weather on Vancouver Island was the Jordan River-Port Renfrew road along the west coast. RCMP said the road was closed Tuesday afternoon.

Seal Drive Donations At $24,578

Contributions totalling $24,578 have been received by the Victoria Christmas Seal Campaign, committee chairman Mrs. J. U. Kimmitt reported Thursday.

"This is slightly ahead of contributions for the same period last year," said Mrs. Kimmitt.

The campaign objective is $27,000 before the end of January.

Donations may be sent to 1962A Fort Street.

Revenue Estimated At $12,000,000

The city of Victoria will take in about $12,000,000 in revenues in 1965, according to a provisional budget prepared Tuesday by the office of Treasurer-Comptroller James Bramley.

However, the city's financial officer emphasized that the budget is, at best, provisional. It was not meant to be an accurate forecast of the city's financial position in 1965. It was merely an estimate.

REQUIRED BY LAW

"Such a provisional budget is required by law," said Mr. Bramley, "but it in no way is meant to be an exact reflection of the city's fiscal position."

Tax levies are expected to bring in about $8,987,400 and

But though there was not a high cash value on it, government officials were deeply upset that anyone would steal it. City police and RCMP were notified after a janitor at the buildings noticed the plaque was missing about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A government official later said: "We take a very dim view of anybody who would think so low as to wish to take from the legislature a plaque to honor those who did bring honor to the province and to Canada during two world wars."

The plaque, about 12 inches wide and 18 inches deep, contained in addition to the replica, a description of the Victoria Cross and a history of how it came into being and how it was awarded.

Beautification Project

Bastion Plan in High Gear

By A. H. MURPHY

Tenders will be let for the development of Bastion Square by the end of January and work will be started early in February if all goes well, according to the city's special projects architect Roderick Clack.

Mr. Clack said Tuesday that planning for the beautification project which will transform the older part of the city, has gone into high gear.

Detailed drawings are being prepared and unit costs being determined.

UNKNOWN FACTORS

Total cost of the Bastion Square rejuvenation would probably be in the neighborhood of $75,000 although it was difficult to estimate accurately at this point because of several unknown factors, said Mr. Clack.

One of these was the work necessary to put all wiring in the square underground.

At the moment planners were discussing details of this aspect of the work with B.C. Hydro.

BEFORE TARGET

"If we can clear up a few of these more troublesome details I see no reason why we should not be ahead of schedule in the conversion of Bastion Square," said Mr. Clack.

"I confidently expect that the work will be completed before the target date early this summer," he added.

An important part of the square complex will be the old courthouse building which will be occupied by the B.C. Maritime Museum.

The city turned the keys of the museum over to the board of trustees at a ceremony recently. At that time it was announced that the work of renovation and conversion of the building for museum purposes would be started at once.

Damage is examined by W. C. Currier, former tenant.

House Fire Damage $2,000

Fire destroyed two rooms of a four-room house at 2330 Trans-Canada Highway Tuesday night, causing nearly $2,000 damage. The house is owned by R. D. Moseley, 533 View Royal. It was unoccupied. The loss was covered by insurance.

The alarm was turned in by

W. C. Currier, 596 Atkins Road, who was renting the house but moved out last week.

Mr. Currier had three stock cars and a truck parked in the yard at the house and had come up to check on them when he noticed the blaze.

"It was really going," he said. The fire apparently started around the kitchen stove and spread to the roof joists. A section of the floor under the stove was burned out.

Langford volunteer fire department was quick on the call and beat down the fire before it could level the house.

Firemen said Mr. Moseley had been working in the house earlier in the day. Heat had been left on because of the cold weather.

Mr. Moseley was redecorating the house.

New Frontiers in 1965

Huge Capital Plan In Saanich Future

By GARY OAKES

Formation of a multi-million-dollar capital projects budget in Saanich will spearhead a campaign to conquer new frontiers in 1965.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis expects the budget to be presented to voters by about June.

It will cost between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, spread over 20 years, and will include construction of roads, sidewalks, sewers, water mains, installation of street lights and land acquisition for park purposes among others.

Saanich is the second municipality in this area which hopes to undertake a long-term capital projects budget, following the city's example set in a feasibility survey in 1962.

Says Reeve Curtis: "We should let the people of the future help pay for some of the work which we must undertake now, in order for them to enjoy living in the municipality in years to come."

"Such a capital program offers real opportunity to Saanich, without placing a heavy burden on today's taxpayers."

Other major assaults in 1965:

- Possible budget increase;
- Expected requests from both fire and police departments for more men and equipment;
- More commercial and industrial development;
- Continued residential development;
- Likelihood of adding two members to council;
- Completion and occupation of the new municipal hall at Swan Lake;
- Continuation of the residential and university development studies;
- Start of an urban renewal scheme;
- Partial implementation of the commercial development study;
- Preparation of a general development plan for the municipality.

School Planning

A major consideration in 1965 from the reeve's viewpoint is school planning.

He seeks council co-operation with both school districts 61 and 63 to select the best possible sites for new schools.

"School boards must keep in mind that a school is part of the community," Mr. Curtis explains.

"Its location brings other development and the boards should take full advantage of our Saanich planning department knowledge and experience."

The reeve pointed out that the taxpayer is entitled to the fullest use of school buildings and property.

"We cannot justify development of a municipal park property when a school ground is lying idle nearby."

Early settlement of the fire chief dispute and another attempt at acquiring a liquor store will round out the Year of Action in Saanich.

Meanwhile, 1964, while certainly a year of achievement, has also been a year of many changes.

The year saw the resignation of Reeve Stanley Murphy, election of Reeve Curtis, defeat of old guard councillor Joe Casey and election of two newcomers, William Campbell and Edward Lum.

It also saw the retirement of Fire Chief Joseph Law and the appointment of Joseph Sutherland as new chief, sparking a dispute which is still raging.

Bigger Than Victoria

At year's end Saanich's estimated population is 56,300, unofficially surpassing Victoria's population (54,000) for the first time.

Also at year's end Saanich has issued about 1,200 building permits worth approximately $12,300,000, far below the city's nearly $20,000,000 figure but still the second highest total on record for Saanich.

Construction at the University of Victoria accounted for almost $1,000,000 while the Woolco department store in Town and Country shopping centre was worth $900,000.

Again, housing construction was the major building in the municipality, accounting for more than $7,600,000 of the total.

Officials expect the nearly 500 homes built during the year are more than all other capital region municipalities combined.

During the year Saanich spent almost $400,000 on sidewalks, road work and street lighting and started work on $100,000 worth of storm drainage.

A major accomplishment in 1964 was completion of a water trunk main on Gordon Head Road to Feltham, eliminating the necessity of imposing water restrictions during the summer, long an inconvenience to ratepayers.

The year of changes in 1964 and the year of new frontiers in '65 will lay important ground-work as Saanich continues its inevitable march towards becoming the capital region's biggest municipality in every way.

But Who's His Master?

Tame Pigeon Likes Life in Brentwood

A black-and-white pigeon looked in a Brentwood pantry window on Boxing Day and apparently liked what he saw.

"I went outside and he came to me," said W. F. Goode, of 7073 Brentwood Drive. "I've been feeding him cookies, corn flakes and dog food ever since."

Mr. Goode said the bird had a band on his leg.

CAN'T SEE IT

"But he won't let me get close enough to catch him and see what it is."

The bird now waits for Mr. Goode to feed him every morning.

"He has a black head and tail. His feet are red and his bill is yellowish but otherwise he is all white."

RACING PIGEON

Mr. Goode, a retired railwayman, says the bird looks like the racing pigeons he used to release in Boston Bar, Ashcroft, Kamloops and other places for CNR customers.

"I heard it said that if a bird walks out of a cage instead of flying out he'll stay in that place. I know it happened that way in Jasper many years ago."

Mr. Goode can be reached at 652-2592.

Grant Given For Housing

Kiwanis Village Society of Victoria was granted $60,000 by cabinet order Tuesday to assist in construction of housing for elderly citizens.

Edith Barlow New Registrar

Miss Edith May Barlow was appointed district registrar in Victoria by cabinet order Tuesday. She succeeds Robert John McConnell, who becomes deputy registrar of births, deaths and marriages in Vancouver and North Vancouver.

Two Schools

New Rooms Ready

Six new classrooms, two at Frank Hobbs and four at Shelburne, are completed and will be in use when the Greater Victoria schools reopen after the Christmas holidays Jan. 4.

The work is part of the $7,600,000 building program.

AFTER EASTER

Glanford, Hampton and Uplands schools are being enlarged by two rooms each and trustees hope these can be in use after Easter.

Tenders are out for four classrooms and a library at Lake Hill; two rooms and reconstruction of an ancillary room at View Royal; and four rooms each at Bank Street and Esquimalt Junior Secondary School.

WORKING DRAWINGS

Six rooms and an ancillary room at Cloverdale, and six rooms at Doncaster are awaiting department of education approval and at the working drawing stage are four rooms and an activity room at Margaret Jenkins and 10 rooms at Colquitz Junior Secondary School.

Sketch plans are being prepared for the Dunsan school for the retarded, six rooms; Fernside, six plus activity room and ancillary rooms; Braxford, two rooms.

SKETCH PLANS

Gordon Head Junior Secondary school is to have six additional rooms and these are also in the sketch plan stage.

Preliminary drawings are being prepared for the 17-room Reynolds Road Junior Secondary School; Christie Point, six rooms, and 11 rooms at Rock Heights Elementary.

Nurse Married In U.S.A.

At a quiet ceremony in the Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin in San Francisco, Reta Florence, daughter of Mrs. Hehn, 3444 Whittier, Victoria, and the late Mr. Henry Hehn, was united in marriage with Mr. Thomas Jerold Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Overt J. Anderson, Minneapolis, Minn. Rev. Keppel Hill performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Robert Spain, the former Holly Francis of Victoria, was the bride's attendant and Mr. Norman Anderson was best man.

A reception and dinner followed in the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito, Calif.

The couple are now living at 84 Mars Street, San Francisco.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's School of Nursing, class of 1958.

More Women

LONDON (CP) — Women learner drivers outnumber men in Britain by three to one, the chairman of a driving school here says. He added that 600,000 persons, both men and women, were waiting to take driving tests.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I know you have written about this in your column before but I wish you would mention it again. I'm talking about parents who fight in front of their children. If they only knew the hell they drag their kids through they'd stop it.

About every three or four weeks my parents have a terrible argument which lasts anywhere from 30 minutes to two hours. Right now they are tearing into each other like a couple of jungle animals. These fights have been going on for two years, and they seem to be getting worse.

After a fight they don't speak to each other for about a week. The tension in the house during the silent spells is awful, too. We kids feel like we are living in the middle of a battlefield. My sister had headaches, and I get such bad stomach pains that I get such bad stomach pains that I can't eat dinner half the time. Please, Ann Landers, tell tight-ing parents the kids realize they have to explode sometimes and get whatever bothers them out of their systems. But why can't they do it in private?—FEARFUL.

Dear Fearful — I can add nothing to your letter, but here is a word to parents: If you see yourselves in the above letter I strongly recommend that you go together to a clergyman and learn how to live together.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son Fred attends college about 350 miles from here. He has a car and comes home once a month for a weekend.

A buddy of his who lives a few blocks away goes to the same college. Last weekend the buddy asked Fred if he could hook a ride home. Fred said "O.K."

When Fred went by to pick up his buddy he had two fraternity brothers with him.

Fred already had four other fellows in the car. He told his buddy he was sorry but eight people was too big a load and he couldn't take them. The three boys took a bus but not before they called Fred a few names you wouldn't print.

Fred's buddy is mad and so are his parents. We think our son used good judgment. What do you think?—R.C.O.

Dear R.C.O.: I think Fred's buddy has a lot of gall to spring two freeloaders as a surprise when he himself was a freeloader.

Eight in a car can be dangerous and in some states it is illegal. I agree with you. Your son used good judgment.

Dear Ann Landers: We are the parents of a nine-month-old child. When we go out for an evening, we always hire a sitter. Before the sitter arrives my husband insists that the dishes be done and the house be in order. His younger sister used to be a sitter and he remembers her complaints about women who left their homes a mess and the sink full of dirty dishes.

It is difficult for me to do up the dishes, straighten the house, get the baby ready for bed and be dressed by 8 p.m. I'm a nervous wreck from rushing around trying to get everything done.

My husband is stubborn and I can't budge him once he makes up his mind about something. Please suggest a solution.—RUN RAGGED.

Dear Run: Make a special arrangement with the sitter (for extra pay) to do the dinner dishes. She will probably be

Canadian Says:

Discrimination A World Affair

By JEAN HARRP

TORONTO (CP) — A pretty, quiet-spoken Canadian girl who spent last summer as a civil rights worker in Mississippi has come home to talk to Canadians and persuade them to help.

Diane Burrows, 22-year-old native of Belleville, Ont., spent her first year after graduating from the University of Toronto working at a girls' reform school in Jamaica under the Overseas organization.

Back in Canada, Miss Burrows read about volunteer projects proposed for Mississippi. On her own initiative she got in touch with the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee (SNCC) and went to Biloxi, Miss., for the summer.

What she wants from Canadians is awareness and involvement.

"I'm always asked: 'Why bother? It's an American problem. Why don't you stay in Canada and work for the Indians and Eskimos?'"

She says that someday she might find a way to apply what she is learning in Canada. "Meanwhile, discrimination is a world affair; you can't circumscribe a human problem."

Miss Burrows, who worked last summer among whites, trying to persuade them to take a stand against segregation.

plans to go back to the South at the first of the year.

Until then she will be working to root SNCC support groups firmly in Canadian soil. She has spoken to student and church groups in Toronto, Kingston, Ont., Belleville and London, Ont., and plans to go to Ottawa and Montreal.

She also had word that people in Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver are interested, Miss Burrows says.

SNCC supplies background literature and films to support groups. And the 72-member Toronto group has a seminar planned for next fall.

Such activities foster awareness and understanding and help shape outside opinion which will have its effect in the United States, Miss Burrows says.

She says she is not actively recruiting Canadians but if they say, "I'd love to go to Mississippi, how do I go?" I tell them. They can write to the SNCC office at 8½ Raymond St., Atlanta, Ga.

But even those who don't intend to go themselves can help. Money and supplies are needed for volunteers, who work without pay, and for victims of violence—bombed-out families or families whose wage-earner has been killed, injured or jailed.

Baskets of greenery, holly and white poinsettias decorated the church for the pretty wedding performed by Rev. D. J. Parsons.

Given in marriage by her father the fair-haired bride was lovely in a period gown of white nylon and satin, featuring V-neckline and pearl embroidered lace inserts in the bodice. The floor-length hooped skirt was enhanced with self-fabric bows extending from waist to hemline. A pearl tiara caught her waist-length veil and she carried a bouquet of red carnations and holly.

Maid of honor, Miss Rinda Mikkelsen, wore a floor-length gown of green velvet and a matching floral headpiece. Bridesmaid Miss Bend the Ellertsen was in an identically styled velvet gown in holly berry red and junior bridesmaid, Miss Rochelle Eveleigh wore a short, red velvet dress. They all carried white carnations and holly.

Mr. Lorne J. Patzack was best man and ushering were Mr. John Pringle and Mr. John Madsen.

Mr. John Flemming proposed toast to the bride at a reception which followed in View Royal Community Hall.

For her going-away ensemble the bride chose a mocha brown, double-knit suit, pale beige accessories and matching topcoat.

Groom's brother and sister-in-law Sgt. J. W. R. Eveleigh, ROCS, and Mrs. Eveleigh, came from Calgary for the wedding. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Garry F. Browne of Richmond, groom's brother-in-law and sister; and his grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Ford of Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bromilow and Miss Judith Bromilow, Maple Bay.

For that elegant occasion when the air is chilly this evening coat will transform the wearer into a Golden Girl. The short evening coat is made of gold leather and luxuriously trimmed with white fox fur at the neckline and at the wrists. The coat is also self-belted at the natural waistline and is from the John Homan spring collection of leather fashions show held in London recently.—(CP Photo)

Red Roses In Bride's Bouquet

At a quiet wedding ceremony in the chapel at Work Point Barracks Miss Phyllis Gale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gale of Anaheim, Calif., became the bride of Mr. Robert Buddell.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Dave Gale, wore a white satin brocade suit and carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations. Mrs. Gordon Freer as her sister's only attendant was in a red suit and carried white carnations.

Mr. Kevin Walsh was best man.

A two-tiered cake centred the table at the reception which followed in the home of the bride's sister.

The newlyweds are now making their home here at Redwood Motel.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald S. Carter, 721 Admirals Road, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Barbara Jean, to Mr. Michael Arthur Cooper, only son of Mr. and Mrs.

Arthur J. Cooper, Calgary, Alta. The wedding will take place at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 16, in St. Paul's Anglican Church with Rev. A. J. Roberts officiating.

in the 1964-model car by city police. The girl pleaded guilty Tuesday in Juvenile Court to possession of stolen property and possession of housebreaking tools.

She was remanded for a pre-sentence report.

After breaking into nine homes in Victoria, eight in Saanich and four in Oak Bay the youthful burglars were spotted by private security patrolman Robert Morgan, 35, of Western Home Guard Patrol, Victoria.

Patrolman Morgan said Tuesday he saw the car parked suspiciously on Cadboro Bay Road near Upper Terrace late Monday night.

"There was a girl in the front seat and a man in the back, and it looked suspicious."

"I noticed the back licence plate was smeared with mud—an old trick used by crooks to avoid detection. That made me more suspicious so I checked the front plate from a distance and called Oak Bay police," Mr. Morgan added.

Burglary-plagued police moved in but the car was gone. The licence number checked out as an overdue U-drive rented Dec. 7 in Victoria.

Radio bulletins alerted all the lower island forces and within an hour the car was spotted at a city bowling alley parking lot, where the three were arrested.

Both men pleaded guilty to all charges in magistrate's court hearings Tuesday.

Saanich prosecutor Kenneth Murphy told Magistrate William Oatler the two burglars had been released three months ago after serving 18 months on a similar string of break-ins in Edmonton. Magistrate Oatler remanded both for sentence until today.

"So your previous experience had no effect on you and you are determined to lead a life of crime?" the magistrate asked Allen.

"We were broke when we came to Victoria and we needed the money," the prisoner replied.

One or the other or both pleaded guilty to entering homes at:
Oak Bay—2137 Central, 2161 McNeill, 2970 Beach Drive, 3205 Upper Terrace.

Saanich—316 Aldrich, 2542 Vista, 3230 Admirals, 3891 Loretta, 318 Davida, 2851 Admirals, 567 Whiteside, 3230 Harriet.
Total value of loot was estimated at less than $300 in the burglaries, many unwittingly aided by householders who left doors or windows unlocked.

Guns Missing In Thailand

BANGKOK (AP)—More than 100 weapons ranging from pistols to machine-guns are missing from Thailand's air force arsenal. The weapons are believed to belong to the U.S. Army.

Louis Toots For Loot

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong Monday night tooted his almost legendary jazz trumpet for one of the smaller audiences and bigger purses of his career.

Texas millionaire lawyer Edmund Ford had Armstrong fly all the way from Japan to play at a coming-out party for his two daughters, Grace and Helen.

Armstrong has played for crowds in the tens of thousands on state department-sponsored tours as an American ambassador of jazz.

It was "one of the most lucrative dates Louis has ever played," said his booking agent.

Easter Closed To French

SANTIAGO (AP)—The Chilean government refused permission Monday for a French frigate to stop at Easter Island, a tiny Chilean possession 2,000 miles west of here in the Pacific.

Officials privately blamed recent demonstrations on the island for independence from Chile on agitation by the crew of another French ship, which visited Easter Island nearly a year ago.

Girl with Green Eyes

May-December Link Given Fresh Look

By IAN STREET
Girl with Green Eyes, now showing at the Fox, is a fresh look at the problem of a young girl who falls in love with a middle-aged man.

Rita Tushingham, who first caught the public eye in another fine British film, A Taste of Honey, plays the Irish country girl in this adaptation of an Edna O'Brien novel.

Peter Finch is the slightly paunchy, middle-aged author who is drawn, against his better judgment, into an emotional involvement with the girl, while separated from his wife.

Miss O'Brien, who wrote the screenplay, and Desmond Davis, a top-flight movie cameraman directing his first film, must receive a good measure of credit for a romantic film that doesn't cloy the palate.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

From the Manager and Staff of the LAWRENCE HOSPITAL

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

TV NOTES: Good news for Carol Burnett fans. The comedienne returned to work Monday after 10 weeks of treatment for her back and neck injury, attending a rehearsal for the episode of The Entertainer which will be shown Saturday... Mary was a big hit as a movie because it was "different" and should be as a TV series, too. The star will be Tom Bosley, a hit on Broadway, as Florentino (New York's Mayor La Guardia)... actress Shirley Jones has been picked for the series. Happily Ever After about a young housewife with a startling sixth sense... The U.S. cigarette industry's new advertising code, which de-emphasizes glamour, goes into effect New Year's Day. No more climbs on those Alpine peaks...

A Philadelphia grand jury empaneled for a month has closed its work by issuing a 12-page report demanding sterner treatment for sex criminals and recommending a "stronger censorship ordinance" to control TV programs.

The jury expressed shock at crimes involving sex degenerates "who victimize the very young and innocent" and urged brakes on "the immoral, obscene and crime-inciting television programs." It said the same action should be taken on many magazines and paperback books.

Social Welfare Looms as Major Session Topic

By IAN STREET

Social welfare in B.C. looms once more as a major topic for debate at the legislative session which opens Jan. 21.

Opposition leader Robert

24 Star Columnist, Victoria
Wednesday, Dec. 30, 1964

Strachan said Tuesday that despite unparalleled prosperity in 1964 handling of social welfare remained a "real problem" in this province.

"Too much money has been squandered," said Mr. Strachan, "and too many human lives wasted by the continual paying out of money without real effort toward rehabilitation."

The NDP leader asked if welfare costs run between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 in times of prosperity, what will happen when the economy "takes a little dip, as it must?"

That was why the New Democratic Party was so concerned with the need for changes in the administration of social welfare, he said.

The government, by agreeing to modify its stand on winter works, had already conceded that it had been "dragging its feet" on some of these matters, said Mr. Strachan.

The opposition leader said the 14 NDP members of the legislature would begin two full days of pre-session caucus here at 10 a.m. Jan. 19.

At these meetings the NDP policies for the session would be formulated.

Mr. Strachan had already said his party would introduce a motion at the next session urging establishment of government-run automobile insurance.

He also indicated that the NDP would support any move to create a major financial centre in Vancouver.

When B.C.'s bank bill was turned down by the senate banking committee earlier this month, Mr. Strachan urged the government to bring in new legislation at the forthcoming session which would set up a provincial banking system.

Denis on Phone

I'm Ruined, He Told Lamontagne

OTTAWA (CP)—Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, was quoted Tuesday as saying, "Pierre, you swore you wouldn't say a word to anyone" during a phone call with Pierre Lamontagne monitored by two RCMP officers investigating a $20,000 bribe offer.

Thompson

'Grits: Clean House'

EDMONTON (UPI)—National Social Credit leader Robert Thompson fired a second punch at the minority Liberal administration Tuesday, saying it faces 30 days of decision in which to fire a number of cabinet ministers or face possible defeat when the session resumes in February.

He indicated it was doubtful if the Dorion inquiry could save face for the Pearson administration.

"While I can not pre-judge the hearing, I must say that unless the ministers involved are completely exonerated, the government can not expect the support of the House or the people."

"There are four ministers under a cloud of suspicion, who have placed the government's image at an all-time low," he added.

The Denis statement was quoted by former RCMP sergeant Ronald Crevier testifying to the Dorion judicial inquiry into charges by Mr. Lamontagne he was offered money and subjected to political pressure to agree to release on bail of a narcotics smuggling suspect.

Mr. Crevier, now an investigator for Mr. Lamontagne's law firm, said Mr. Denis told Mr. Lamontagne:

"I'm finished, I'm ruined." He said during the course of the 25-minute call Mr. Denis also denied offering Mr. Lamontagne $10,000 payable July 15 and another $10,000 when Lucien Rivard was released on bail.

Mr. Lamontagne is counsel for the United States government which was on an indictment linking Rivard with the Mafia international crime syndicate.

SECOND WITNESS

Mr. Crevier, a tall, thin man with a reddish fringe of hair around a big bald patch, was the second witness heard Tuesday by the inquiry under Chief Justice Frederic Doherty of the Quebec Superior Court.

Earlier, Guy Lord, former special assistant to Justice Minister Favreau, testified he inquired about the Rivard case Aug. 4 at the suggestion of Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal and chairman of the caucus of Liberal MPs.

He said his call wasn't to arrange bail—as suggested in testimony by Mr. Lamontagne—but simply to obtain information about a case he thought the Canadian government was involved in.

NOT INVOLVED

He said Mr. Lamontagne made it clear there could be no question of bail for Rivard and the federal justice department wasn't involved.

Mr. Lord said he conveyed this information to Rouleau, who visited him twice the same day about the matter, and told the MP it would be useless for Mr. Rouleau to see Mr. Favreau about it.

He said he gathered from Mr. Lamontagne that Mr. Rouleau was interested in getting Rivard free on bail, adding under questioning by Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservatives, that a statement he gave

Back-Room Arrangement

UN Compromise Delays Showdown

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly chose three members of the Security Council Tuesday under a back-room arrangement to put off until January any showdown over voting rights of the Soviet Union and other debtor countries.

But the arrangement failed to produce enough support for a victory for either Mali or Jordan in a contest for a fourth council seat, and a new attempt will be made today.

Malaysia, The Netherlands and Uruguay were declared accepted as non-permanent members of the council to take office on New Year's Day.

RECESS CLEAR

If the assembly disposes of the Security Council problem the way will be open to recess today until Jan. 11 while negotiations continue on the deadlock over application of article 19 of the UN Charter involving voting rights.

The procedure on the Security Council vacancies was another chapter in the unorthodox method adopted at the assembly's opening Dec. 1 when it agreed to a no-vote truce while attempts were made to resolve the dispute over article 19.

Chief delegates filed into an office and marked their choices for the four council seats.

The assembly will meet this afternoon to deal with the Mali-Jordan deadlock and a resolution permitting Secretary-General U. Thant to spend money for UN salaries and other expenses in January on the same basis as in the 1964 budget.

U.S. Polaris Patrol 'War Provocation'

TOKYO (AP)—Red China asserted Tuesday that patrol by U.S. Polaris submarines off the coast were "a naked provocation by U.S. imperialism against the Chinese people."

The statement was commenting on the U.S. defence department's confirmation that the submarine Daniel Boone with 16 rockets aboard is in waters off the Asian mainland.

Africans Divided Over Congo Vote

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A split between African countries over a UN Security Council resolution for Congo peace prevented a vote in the council Tuesday. The council was ordered to return for a 16th session today.

Ivory Coast and Morocco, African members of the council, presented a joint resolution calling for a cease-fire in the Congo and ordering Premier

Moise Tshombe's white mercenaries withdrawn.

But Guinea's Achkar Marof, spokesman for 18 complaining African countries, objected to giving Secretary-General U. Thant a watchdog role in carrying out the resolution.

He proposed an amendment striking any mention of Thant from the resolution. Unless it was adopted, he said, the group of 18 would oppose the entire measure.

New Hitler Era On the Horizon?

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—Dr. Martin Niemöller, the controversial German pastor, advised West Germans Tuesday to boycott September's federal elections which he said could bring a dictatorship worse than Adolf Hitler's.

Dr. Niemöller, one of the presidents of the World Council of Churches, in an article he wrote for the monthly Protestant magazine Stimme der Gemeinde, predicted a coalition of the dominant political parties in the Bonn parliament that of could end "in a dictatorship." To prevent such a development, Dr. Niemöller called on West Germans to show their dissatisfaction by making their ballots invalid.

Dr. Niemöller was a German submarine captain in the First World War and an early supporter of Hitler. Later, however, he was sent to a concentration camp for his anti-Nazi sentiments. He retired a few weeks ago from the presidency of the Evangelical Church in the State of Hesse.

To Cut-Off Thousands

DAREDEVILS LOFT FOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Daredevil helicopter pilots bucked crosswinds and snowstorms Tuesday to fly supplies to some of the 2,500 people marooned by Christmas week floods in the far West.

The pilots, flying out of Yreka, Calif., in "weather you wouldn't believe," completed some missions to Happy Camp near the California-Oregon state line, where 1,300 people had been cut off from the outside.

Three other helicopters flying supplies had to turn back in the face of rapidly-changing weather conditions that lifted briefly and then resumed with renewed fury.

FOUR ATTEMPTS

Attempts to reach other and smaller isolated communities on the Klamath and Salmon rivers were thwarted by the storm, which was expected to continue through today. Four attempts to reach the community of Forks of Salmon had to be given up.

The snowstorm was an aftermath of last week's torrential floods that took at least 41 lives and caused more than $600,000,000 damage in the five-state area of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Commercial helicopter pilots, dubbed "the best in the world" by civil defence officials, were poised to try to reach the smaller communities between breaks in the storm if possible today.

SOON AS POSSIBLE

"They are flying in weather you wouldn't believe," said civil defence director Bill Sowle in Yreka. "We have the supplies and the helicopters and will get them into those canyons just as soon as humanly possible."

"We are getting a better picture of conditions in there now. We have got radio contact and the people are requesting certain supplies—like milk, cheap medicines. One guy even asked for a can of pipe tobacco."

SMALL GROUPS

Sowle added that there were miners and others in small groups that had not been contacted and were still not accounted for.

"But when we get a break in the weather, we will find them quickly," he said. "We will put on what you might call a massive airlift."

Sowle said that 25 air force helicopters from Stead Air Force Base, Nev., were presently at Kingsley Air Force Base near Klamath Falls, Ore., and would be brought to Siskiyou County today to help when the weather breaks.

HAPPY CAMP

He said four-wheel drive vehicles had pushed through "a kind of a road" to Happy Camp and delivered supplies to the residents there.

"It is open for emergencies only," he said, "because part of the way the four-wheelers have to be towed by cats (tractors)."

Snow and rain from the storm continued to pelt most of the Pacific Coast north of San Francisco.

Oregon's Bill: $315,000,000

PORTLAND (AP)—Federal officials Tuesday estimated loss in Oregon floods at almost $315,000,000.

A federal disaster inspection team set transportation and utilities damage at $160,000,000. The breakdown included $55,000,000 in roads and streets; $55,000,000 to agriculture; $33,000,000 to industrial and commercial properties; and $11,300,000 to residential areas.

Vancouver Still Digging

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hit by another series of snowdrifts Tuesday, Vancouver dug deeper into its dwindling supplies of salt in efforts to keep main streets clear.

Crews continued their round-the-clock sanding, salting and plowing following a heavy snowfall Monday night and early Tuesday and snowdrifts again Tuesday afternoon.

The overnight storm dumped between three and five inches on the western portion of the Greater Vancouver area. Some North Shore communities got as much as 12 inches.

SOME HEAVIER

The snowfall Tuesday afternoon added to the 26.4 inches that has fallen at Vancouver Airport in December. Many suburbs had heavier snowfalls.

The weather office saw no immediate end to the snow and cold.

Ron Martin, city engineer, said the situation was a near-emergency and the city was appealing to motorists not to park on main roads so that snow-clearing could be done effectively.

If an emergency was called, the city would ban street parking. A number of cars were towed away from downtown streets Monday night following police warnings.

"Salt was looking as a major problem, however."

"We have got some salt left and are trying to make it last until our big supply comes in (in January)," said Mr. Martin.

ROUTES BLOCKED

The Vancouver Salt Company said its supplies were exhausted and it was unable to get more immediately because of flooding in California and Oregon along trucking routes.

It was virtually impossible to get chains or snow tires in Vancouver Tuesday.

FRESH SUPPLIES

Most major tire firms said they had no supply of 14-inch snow tires although truckers were attempting to bring fresh supplies in from eastern Canada.

Garages and stores have been sold out of chains for several days, although some garages were getting a limited supply.

Cowichan Teachers

Pay Raise Announced

DUNCAN (Special)—An average increase of 4.1 per cent on the basic wage scale for 1965 was announced Tuesday night for 176 Cowichan school district teachers by a three-member arbitration board.

The pay scale will go up on a range of 2.2 to 8.4 per cent depending on the teacher's classification and experience.

The award will raise salaries of the 176 teachers by a total of $43,822 and is $12,000 above a conciliation offer by the school board which was accepted by teacher's negotiators but rejected by the teachers themselves.

Bonanno's Son Picked Up

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Tucson police and FBI agents arrested Tuesday the son of vanished underworld leader Joseph Bonanno.

Salvatore (Bill) Bonanno, 22, was taken from a barber's chair and brought before U.S. Commissioner Thomas McKay on a federal warrant issued in New York.

The warrant orders Bonanno to appear in New York Jan. 5 before a federal grand jury inquiring into the Oct. 21 disappearance of his father.

Cast of Bribery Probe

The Dorion Players

Here is a partial guide to the cast in the Dorion inquiry, the biggest courtroom drama in recent Canadian history:

Chief Justice Frederic Doherty of the Quebec Superior Court, conducting the judicial investigation into allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling at lofty levels of the federal government.

Lucien Rivard, 48, wanted in the United States on a charge of narcotics smuggling; in jail while his lawyers try to get him out on bail or habeas corpus.

Pierre Lamontagne, 29, acting for the U.S., who says he was offered a $20,000 bribe not to oppose bail for Rivard.

Raymond Denis, 31, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay; accused by Lamontagne of offering him the bribe.

Guy Lord, 25, former executive assistant to Justice Minister Favreau; and Andre Legendre, executive assistant to Mr. Favreau, both alleged to have tried to coerce Lamontagne.

Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal and chairman of the caucus of Liberal MPs, who visited him twice the same day about the matter, and told the MP it would be useless for Mr. Rouleau to see Mr. Favreau about it.

He said he gathered from Mr. Lamontagne that Mr. Rouleau was interested in getting Rivard free on bail, adding under questioning by Ross Drouin, counsel for the Progressive Conservatives, that a statement he gave

POSSIBLE WITNESSES

H. P. Estlin Named To Bench

Henry Prior Estlin has been appointed magistrate of the Parkville small claims court. It was announced Tuesday. A provincial cabinet order confirmed his appointment as a replacement for Magistrate Eric Wines, who will continue his regular court duties.

Around the Island

Food, Cash Vanish

NANAIMO — A camera, a radio, $400 worth of groceries and about $50 in cash have been reported stolen from the home of a Nanaimo man who was visiting in Vancouver over the Christmas holiday. John Hankin, 731 Victoria Road, told police he returned home Monday to find the goods gone.

PORT ALBERNI — The formula which caused garage owner Edward Miller to drop his plans to shut down the Alberni Valley's only ambulance service, was disclosed Monday. Mr. Miller will receive a monthly subsidy of $70 and has been guaranteed 75 per cent of all accounts deemed uncollectable after six months. He had planned to cease service Dec. 1 due to financial losses and other reasons, but will continue the formula at least until next June 30.

DUNCAN — Last rites will be held from the Hirst chapel at 2 p.m. Thursday for Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Alexander, 54, who died Monday. She had lived in this district for 28 years.

NANAIMO — Everyone in Nanaimo has been asked to bring his or her Christmas tree to Scotians' Bluff during daylight hours Jan. 7. The annual burning of holiday trees will be conducted all day Jan. 7 by Hub City Kiwanis Club members and members of the Nanaimo fire department.

LADYSMITH — Six-year-old Virginia Berry of Saltair is in good condition in Ladysmith General Hospital following an accident on Knutsen Road Tuesday afternoon. Police said the girl suffered multiple abrasions when struck by a car driven by Montague Reynard of Ladysmith. They said the girl was sliding on a ski from a driveway onto the road and the car was moving slowly.

DUNCAN — Cameron L. Hoeg of Duncan escaped with facial cuts when the car he was driving on Somers Road collided with a car driven by Mrs. Nancy Robertson, also of Duncan. Police said the accident occurred at a private driveway, and estimated damage at $1,100.

PARKVILLE — Officials of the Parkville Fish and Game Association say the association will hold another junior firearms safety course if enough applications are received. The officials hope to start the eight-week course in January and ask anyone interested to get in touch with Henry Estlin.

FULFORD — A New Year's Eve dance for the young people of this district will be held in Fulford Hall Thursday evening, with Martin Holt's orchestra providing the music. The dance was scheduled after a similar affair proved successful on Boxing Day. Proceeds will help pay for the oil furnace installed in the hall last week and $80 was collected Boxing Day.

DUNCAN — Funeral services were held Monday from the Hirst chapel for four-year-old Annie Hyselendorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pieter Hyselendorn of Cowichan Station. The child died Christmas Day in St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria.

LADYSMITH — Richard E. Lunney of Nanaimo has been fined $50 on each count in magistrate's court here after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance by swearing and being a minor in possession of liquor. In the same court, Isabella Margaret Smith of Ladysmith was fined $10 for causing a disturbance by shouting and swearing.

PARKVILLE — Almost 500 local residents and visitors from other island points and the mainland defied poor weather to make the 17th annual fireman's ball an outstanding success. The Country Club orchestra provided music for the recent event.

Lighting Contest

Harewood Man Winner Again

NANAIMO — The owner of a Harewood home has been chosen by Rotary judges as the winner for the second consecutive year of the main prize in the Jaycees' annual Light Up for Christmas contest.

The Hub City Kiwanis trophy went again to contractor John Stewart, Jr., 3345 Third Street. He and other winners will receive their awards in a ceremony in city hall at 4 p.m. Jan. 6.

SECOND TROPHY

Second prize went to chartered accountant W. R. Lang, who lives at 2565 Lynburn Crescent in the Departure Bay area. He will receive the Harewood Plaza trophy.

The new Crescent Finance trophy for third place was awarded to D. G. Byers, 1901 Northfield Road.

Teacher Arbitration

Five Per Cent Raise Alberni Proposal

PORT ALBERNI — The three-member board which arbitrated the 1965 salary dispute between Alberni district teachers and the valley school board has recommended a wage increase of about five per cent over two years.

The recommendation was announced Monday night at a meeting of the school board, which had offered 3.2 per cent more.

SALARY RANGES

It would bring salary ranges for elementary grade teachers to $3,200 to $6,600 and for professional teachers to $4,750 to $9,450.

It would also be second lowest on Vancouver Island among 1965 teacher salary settlements. Victoria's was lower while the Nanaimo increase was almost six per cent and the Courtenay increase was over six per cent.

Board members were Vancouver lawyer and MLA Alex MacDonald, representing the teachers; Victoria lawyer Kenneth Murphy, the school board appointee; and chairman John Bourne.

EDUCATIONAL TV

Also at the school board meeting, district superintendent W. H. Gurney urged "serious consideration" to the use of educational television in all Alberni district schools.

Such TV now is in use at Calgary and Alberni elementary schools.

Season's First Lambs?

Probably the first lambs born on Vancouver Island this season are twin born Boxing Day on Oak Ridge farm of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Street on Somers Road in Duncan area and held here by Mrs. Street while son Richard, 17, holds ewe. New crop usually does not arrive until end of January. — (Klaus Mueller)

Comedy Casting Monday

NANAIMO — The Yellow Point drama group will hold a casting session Monday evening in Cedar community hall for a four-act French comedy which will be presented at four centres in the Queen Charlotte Islands in early spring.

Producer is Hector Richmond, vice-president of the drama group and director will be Mrs. Joan Morgan. A cast of 12 is needed and will probably be drawn mainly from the membership of the drama group.

The play is Thieves' Carnival, written by Jean Anouilh. Mr. Richmond said it is the type of comedy calculated to appeal to young and old. It will be presented in Nanaimo before going on tour in the Charlottes.

Aldermen End '64 In Duncan

DUNCAN — City council, which normally meets Monday nights, will hold its final meeting of the year today.

Most important item on the short agenda is adoption of two requests for rezoning to apartment use from residential. They came from two firms planning apartment buildings on Trunk Road near the Legion hall—Cowichan Estates Ltd. and Edward Chow and Associates of Vancouver.

North Cowichan council, which normally meets Wednesdays, will hold its next meeting Jan. 4.

Weatherman Says:

No Change Is in Sight

Clouds, a few snow flurries and continuing cold temperatures make up the forecast for both the east and west coasts of Vancouver Island, the Victoria weather office said Tuesday night.

Temperature extremes in the next 24 hours for key centres were given as 25 and 35 in Nanaimo, 30 and 35 at Esquimalt Point. "No change is in sight" in these conditions, an official said.

Cowichan Area

Highways Crew Snowed Under

Nanaimo's Fall Tops Record

NANAIMO—This city has had more snow this December than in any month since the federal transport department's weather station began operating in 1953.

Until 5 p.m. Tuesday slightly more than 36 inches of snow had fallen. The previous record was 34.9 inches in January, 1951.

The depth of snow remaining on the ground is about one foot in most areas after some rain and intermittent warm periods.

Officials at the weather station say present cold temperatures are not likely to go away soon. A low of 25 degrees was expected Tuesday night and, because of thawing temperatures during the day, roads were expected to be covered with ice and extremely dangerous.

Still Falling

West Coast Winning Fight

ALBERNI—Three graders and two bulldozers have managed to keep the Alberni-Tofino road open to traffic through the worst stretch of winter weather since the highway was built five years ago.

William Bos, the provincial highways department's resident engineer here, said Tuesday the bulldozers are working 24 hours a day to widen the path plowed by the graders during daylight hours.

Sutton Pass, where the heaviest falls have been recorded, has about six feet of snow and more was expected overnight.

Nine inches fell Tuesday morning. Mr. Bos said heavy snowfalls Monday and Tuesday added to the troubles of crews working to keep roads clear in the Ucluelet-Tofino-Long Beach area.

In Alberni and Port Alberni work crews were making headway in snow-clearing operations despite a fall of several inches early Tuesday and snow flurries through the day.

Cars without snow tires were having difficulty at Alberni Mountain on Highway 4 despite efforts to plow and sand the road.

McGill Lake weather station observer Colin Wilson reported Tuesday the snow total for November and December is almost 68 inches, well above the 48 inches in the same two months in the previous record winter of 1911-12.

That winter wound up with a total of 102 inches of snow, thanks to a terrible January.

DUNCAN—The provincial highway department crew in the Cowichan area "is having a really tough time" with the snow, foreman Ambrose Casagrande said Tuesday.

He spoke after more snow hit the area, with Lake Cowichan apparently getting hit hardest. Two inches fell overnight at Lake Cowichan and a snowstorm which started at 9 a.m. Tuesday had added another four inches by mid-afternoon.

The district now has more than two feet of snow with still more expected in the next couple of days.

ROADS OPEN

Mr. Casagrande said his men were plowing and salting all day Tuesday on the Lake Cowichan, Paldi, Youbou and Honeyman Bay roads.

He said the roads were open but asked all drivers, especially operators of heavy trucking units, to use chains where needed.

A 15-minute snowfall Tuesday afternoon left a thin covering of snow in the Duncan, Cobble Hill, Chemainus and Ladysmith regions.

NIGHT FREEZING

Main roads are clear and sidewalks are passable, as in most Vancouver Island districts.

However, police in all areas say snow and ice is thawing in the daylight hours each day, then freezing each night, making early-morning rush-hour driving the most dangerous.

The only major highway link closed by the weather on all of Vancouver Island is the Jordan River-Port Renfrew road on the west coast, which was closed Tuesday afternoon.

COSTS HIGH

Snow removal bills for the city of Duncan and the municipality of North Cowichan have gone beyond the 1964 budget allocations by several thousands of dollars.

The city has had to dish out about $3,500 compared to the $1,000 set down in the budget for the work. North Cowichan's bill has reached $10,000, far above the $3,700 in the budget for snow removal.

Injuries Minor In Major Crash

LAKE COWICHAN—Two men had a close brush with death Tuesday morning, escaping with only minor injuries when a tractor-trailer unit and a car collided on the Youbou road.

One of the two, the driver of the big trailer unit, jumped from its cab only seconds before the unit plunged down a 100-foot, snow-covered embankment.

Police said Ron Mattin of Duncan was driving the Arrow Transfer tractor-trailer unit toward Lake Cowichan from the B.C. Forest Products mill at Youbou.

The large vehicle, loaded with chips, collided with a car driven toward Youbou by Luigi Crucchiola of Duncan.

Mr. Crucchiola received minor facial cuts and Mr. Mattin was slightly injured as he jumped clear just after the collision and just before the unit went down the bank.

on its side at the base of the bank.

Police said the Youbou road was extremely icy at the time and added damage to both vehicles was extensive.

Alphonse George, 99

Cowichan Valley Native Dies

DUNCAN—Alphonse George, a pioneer resident of the Cowichan Valley and one of its best known citizens, has died in King's Daughters' Hospital at the age of 99.

Prayers for the native of Quamichan will be said in the Hirst funeral home here at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Ann's Church at Tsouhalem at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Mr. George is survived by two sons, Basil and Christopher, both of Quamichan; 19 grandchildren, 80 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren.

Mr. George, who worked for many years at the old Genoa Bay sawmill, became an expert in Indian folklore.

Oldtimers Recall Year of Big Snow

Story and Picture
By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—This winter's snow isn't much, according to Mr. and Mrs. Jules Weicker and other old-timers of this district. The 82-year-old Mr. Weicker, 167 Cronation Avenue, was telling of his life in an interview the other day when he mentioned "the year of the big snow" as an unforgettable memory.

Duncan was almost buried under six feet of snow in 1916

but, said Mr. Weicker, "no one worried."

His life includes helping to build Duncan from its modest beginnings and the former independent contractor, now retired, still loves to grow dahlias, do some carpentry and play a game of bridge.

Born in Aubange, Belgium, near the French border, Mr. Weicker was eight years old when his parents moved to Manitoba—and he still converses in English, French or German with equal ease.

He recalls the time in 1902 when his parents searched for a homestead beyond the end of the railroad east of Saskatoon. "We had to travel for three days in a covered wagon," he says. "There was no snow in April, but there was heavy frost, and we had to sleep under the wagon."

The family later returned to Manitoba but young Jules came down with pneumonia and went back to the old country to recuperate.

He married his Swiss-born wife in 1910 in Lourdes, Man., where he owned a store. The young couple went on a trip to Europe and returned to find a fire had destroyed "all we possessed."

The Weickers arrived in Duncan in August, 1911, when only a very few buildings were scattered outside the "city centre" and the railroad station.

Another memory is his place in a city brass band. In 1912 the band drove through Duncan's streets on a haywagon playing for the new mayor and aldermen. In 1919, he played the cornet for the Prince of Wales during the latter's visit to the Cowichan Valley.

A recession in 1922 forced Mr. Weicker to leave his growing family to find work with a Prairie threshing outfit.

Finally he became a home builder, erecting 60 houses in what now is the city of Duncan.

This occupied the rest of his working life except for a period at Chemainus with a Victoria lumber company.

"I worked there for four years," he says, "nine hours a day, six days a week... hard work, too, and one time I worked 24 hours straight with only time off for coffee every four hours."

Other memories for Jules and Theresa Weicker are a semi-private audience with Pope Pius in 1956, a following trip through Europe, the opening of the Oak Bay Pharmacy by their sons Wilfred and John, and their 50th wedding anniversary.

All six of their children attended the anniversary in 1960, along with 22 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Of their four daughters, Mrs. Blanche Boyer lives in Nanaimo and Mrs. Agnes Kocurek, Mrs. Rita Foucher and Mrs. Alyce Burton live in Duncan.

Campbell River Issue

Opponents of the amalgamation of Campbell River and Willow Point were challenged Tuesday by Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell to prove the existence of widespread opposition to a merger by taking up a petition.

If the opponents could prove 60 per cent of those affected do not want to join together, the minister said, "we would be happy to order another vote."

LEADER OF IS

Mr. Campbell directed his challenge to garage owner Kenneth Forde, leader of 13 Campbell River district businessmen who recently:

● Issued an appeal to the public of B.C. for aid to the "several hundred" people in the district who do not want a municipality.

● Asked Premier Bennett to fire Mr. Campbell from the cabinet, to drop plans for any amalgamation and to cancel a second vote in two areas Feb. 6.

FIVE AREAS

Five areas voted Dec. 12 on formation of a district municipality. Campbell River village voted yes by more than 90 per cent. Willow Point was in favor by 56 per cent. Quinam and North Campbell River were opposed by less than 60 per cent and Oyster River voted no by about 65 per cent.

Mr. Campbell announced shortly afterward that Campbell River and Willow Point would become a municipality by Dec. 31 to take advantage of financial gains.

EXCLUDED

He said Oyster River would be excluded from any merger because of the size of its no vote.

But he added the new municipality would need an industrial tax base and the other two areas were opposed by small margins, so the two—Quinam and North Campbell River—would vote again Feb. 6.

BIG MAJORITY

Mr. Campbell said Tuesday he carefully left out the new municipality to be formed at once the areas where there was no majority for a merger.

But he pointed out the combined votes of Campbell River and Willow Point showed a 79 per cent majority in favor, so he recommended their amalgamation.

CRITICISM REJECTED

The minister rejected Mr. Forde's criticisms, saying the garage owner has been regularly wrong on local issues.

Mr. Campbell said that, if Mr. Forde is correct in estimating the size of opposition to the immediate municipality, there should be no trouble in preparing a petition of 60 per cent against it.

Station Visited

Visit was paid Tuesday to Nanaimo biological station at Departure Bay by federal Fisheries Minister H. J. Robichaud during second day of his three-day tour of west coast fisheries department facilities. He declined comment until press conference in Vancouver today.

Good Old Days

Among luckiest children on Vancouver Island are those in Nanaimo's Cedar district, given old-fashioned sleighride by longtime Cedar resident Bob Gilbarne. Mr. Gilbarne plans to keep his team of Clydesdales and old bob-sleigh at work as long as snow lasts. —(Agnes Field)

The Weickers propose a Christmas toast in their Duncan home.

More Ships Call At Nanaimo

NANAIMO—A record total of 254 deep-sea freighters called at the port of Nanaimo in 1964, harbormaster John Dunham announced Tuesday.

He said the figure was 18 per cent higher than the 200 recorded last year.

Mr. Dunham also said close to 300,000,000 board feet of lumber and about 150,000 tons of pulp were shipped from city and Marmae wharves. It was not reported whether these figures also were new highs for the area.

Meter Raids

Children Arrested By Duncan Police

DUNCAN—Five children aged from 12 to 15 years were arrested here early Tuesday and RCMP officials said later in the day they probably will be charged with thefts from city parking meters.

Police added only that the five are three boys and two girls and that investigations are continuing.

Thefts from meters have been occurring about every second week in Duncan for several months.

Ald. Hamish Mutter, at a recent council meeting, demanded more police action on the thefts. City officials said Tuesday it is impossible to say exactly how much money has been taken but added they thought the amount is not very high.

One official said a fully-used meter will bring in about 40 cents a day but pointed out meters are emptied at regular intervals to discourage thieves.

NOT DOWNTOWN

He said the city's revenue from meters is close to $10,000 a year but the cost of repairing a meter is negligible.

The official added downtown meters have not been robbed and the thieves usually hit meters only outside the heart of the city centre.

Denis on Phone

I'm Ruined, He Told Lamontagne

OTTAWA (CP)—Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, was quoted Tuesday as saying, "Pierre, you swore you wouldn't say a word to anyone" during a phone call with Pierre Lamontagne monitored by two RCMP officers investigating a $20,000 bribe offer.

Thompson

The Denis statement was quoted by former RCMP sergeant Ronald Crevier testifying to the Dorion judicial inquiry into charges by Mr. Lamontagne he was offered money and subjected to political pressure to agree to release on bail of a narcotics smuggling suspect.

Mr. Crevier, now an investigator for Mr. Lamontagne's law firm, said Mr. Denis told Mr. Lamontagne:

"I'm finished. I'm ruined."

He said during the course of the 25-minute call Mr. Denis also denied offering Mr. Lamontagne $10,000 payable July 15 and another $10,000 when Lucien Rivard was released on bail.

Mr. Lamontagne is counsel for the United States government which wants Rivard on an indictment linking Rivard with the Mafia international crime syndicate.

SECOND WITNESS

Mr. Crevier, a tall, thin man with a reddish fringe of hair around a big bald patch, was the second witness heard Tuesday by the inquiry under Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court.

Earlier, Guy Lord, former special assistant to Justice Minister Favreau, testified he inquired about the Rivard case Aug. 4 at the suggestion of Guy Rouleau, Liberal MP for Montreal-Dollard and chairman of the caucus of Liberal MPs.

He said his call wasn't to arrange bail—as suggested in testimony by Mr. Lamontagne—but simply to obtain information about a case he thought the Canadian government was involved in.

NOT INVOLVED

He said Mr. Lamontagne made it clear there could be no question of bail for Rivard and the federal justice department wasn't involved.

Mr. Lord said he conveyed this information to Rouleau, who visited him twice the same day about the matter, and told the MP it would be useless for Mr. Rouleau to see Mr. Favreau about it.

He said he gathered from Mr. Lamontagne that Mr. Rouleau was interested in getting Rivard free on bail, adding under questioning by Ross Douin, counsel for the Progressive Conservatives, that a statement he gave

Back-Room Arrangement

UN Compromise Delays Showdown

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly chose three members of the Security Council Tuesday under a back-room arrangement to put off until January any showdown over voting rights of the Soviet Union and other debtor countries.

But the arrangement failed to produce enough support for a victory for either Mali or Jordan in a contest for a fourth council seat, and a new attempt will be made today.

Malaysia, The Netherlands and Uruguay were declared accepted as non-permanent members of the council to take office on New Year's Day.

RECESS CLEAR

If the assembly disposes of the Security Council problem today will be open to recess today until Jan. 11 while negotiations continue on the deadlock over application of article 19 of the UN Charter involving voting rights.

The procedure on the Security Council vacancies was another chapter in the unorthodox method adopted at the assembly's opening Dec. 1 when it agreed to a no-vote truce while attempts were made to resolve the dispute over article 19.

Chief delegates filed into an office and marked their choices for the four council seats.

The assembly will meet this afternoon to deal with the Mali-Jordan deadlock and a resolution permitting Secretary-General U Thant to spend money for UN salaries and other expenses in January on the same basis as in the 1964 budget.

India Rounds Up Top Communists

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Police swooped down on India's Communist party early today, making several hundred arrests throughout the country under the preventive detention acts.

Five Communist party Politburo members were arrested at Trichur, in the southwest Indian state of Kerala, where they were attending a party meeting.

Africans Divided Over Congo Vote

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A split between African countries over a UN Security Council resolution for Congo peace prevented a vote in the council Tuesday. The council was ordered to return for a 16th session today.

Ivory Coast and Morocco, African members of the council, presented a joint resolution calling for a ceasefire in The Congo and ordering Premier

New Hitler Era On the Horizon?

FRANKFURT, West Germany could end "in a dictatorship," (AP)—Dr. Martin Niemöller, the controversial German pastor, advised West Germans Tuesday to boycott September's federal elections which he said could bring a dictatorship worse than Adolf Hitler's.

Dr. Niemöller, one of the presidents of the World Council of Churches, in an article he wrote for the monthly Protestant magazine Stimme der Gemeinde, predicted a coalition by the dominant political parties Evangelical Church in the State in the Bonn parliament that of Hesse.

Thousands Stranded

DAREDEVILS LOFT FOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Daredevil helicopter pilots bucked crosswinds and snowstorms Tuesday to fly supplies to some of the 2,500 people marooned by Christmas week floods in the far West.

The pilots, flying out of Yreka, Calif., in "weather you wouldn't believe," completed some missions to Happy Camp near the California-Oregon state line, where 1,300 people had been cut off from the outside.

Three other helicopters flying supplies had to turn back in the face of rapidly-changing weather conditions that lifted briefly and then resumed with renewed fury.

FOUR ATTEMPTS

Attempts to reach other and smaller isolated communities on the Klamath and Salmon rivers were thwarted by the storm, which was expected to continue through today. Four attempts to reach the community of Forks of Salmon had to be given up.

The snowstorm was an aftermath of last week's torrential floods that took at least 41 lives and caused more than $600,000,000 damage in the five-state area of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Commercial helicopter pilots, dubbed "the best in the world" by civil defence officials, were poised to try to reach the smaller communities between breaks in the storm if possible today.

SOON AS POSSIBLE

"They are flying in weather you wouldn't believe," said civil defence director Bill Sowle in Yreka. "We have the supplies and the helicopters and will get them into those canyons just as soon as humanly possible."

"We are getting a better picture of conditions in there now. We have got radio contact and the people are requesting certain supplies—like milk, cheap medicines. One guy even asked for a can of pipe tobacco."

SMALL GROUPS

Sowle added that there were miners and others in small groups that had not been contacted and were still not accounted for.

"But when we get a break in the weather, we will find them quickly," he said. "We will put on what you might call a massive airlift."

Sowle said that 25 air force helicopters from Stead Air Force Base, Nev., were presently at Kingsley Air Force Base near Klamath Falls, Ore., and would be brought to Siskiyou County today to help when the weather broke.

HAPPY CAMP

He said four-wheel drive vehicles had pushed through "a kind of a road" to Happy Camp and delivered supplies to the residents there.

"It is open for emergencies only," he said, "because part of the way the four-wheelers have to be towed by cats (tractors)."

Snow and rain from the storm continued to pelt most of the Pacific Coast north of San Francisco.

Oregon's Bill: $315,000,000

PORTLAND (AP)—Federal officials Tuesday estimated loss in Oregon floods at almost $315,000,000.

A federal disaster inspection team set transportation and utilities damage at $100,000,000. The breakdown included $55,000,000 in roads and streets; $55,000,000 to agriculture; $33,000,000 to industrial and commercial properties; and $11,300,000 to residential areas.

Vancouver Still Digging

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hit by another series of snowflurries Tuesday, Vancouver dug deeper into its dwindling supplies of salt in efforts to keep main streets clear.

Crews continued their round-the-clock sifting, salting and plowing following a heavy snowfall Monday night and early Tuesday and snowflurries again Tuesday afternoon.

The overnight storm dumped between three and five inches on the western portion of the Greater Vancouver area. Some North Shore communities got as much as 12 inches.

SOME HEAVIER

The snowfall Tuesday afternoon added to the 28.4 inches that has fallen at Vancouver Airport in December. Many suburbs had heavier snowfalls.

The weather office saw no immediate end to the snow and cold.

Ron Martin, city engineer, said the situation was a near-emergency and the city was appealing to motorists not to park on main roads so that snow-clearing could be done effectively.

If an emergency were called, the city would ban street parking. A number of cars were towed away from downtown streets Monday night following police warnings.

Salt was looming as a major problem, however.

"We have got some salt left and are trying to make it last until our big supply comes in (in January)," said Mr. Martin.

ROUTES BLOCKED

The Vancouver Salt Company said its supplies were exhausted and it was unable to get more immediately because of flooding in California and Oregon along trucking routes.

It was virtually impossible to get chains or snow tires in Vancouver Tuesday.

FRESH SUPPLIES

Most major tire firms said they had no supply of 14-inch snow tires although truckers were attempting to bring fresh supplies in from eastern Canada.

Garages and stores have been sold out of chains for several days, although some garages were getting a limited supply.

'Accuser' Faces Contempt Action

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government will take contempt of court action against Montreal author Jacques Hebert because of passages in his book, J'Accuse les Assassins de Cofin. (I Accuse the Assassins of Cofin).

Attorney-General Claude Wagner told a press conference the decision to launch the action was taken at a cabinet meeting Tuesday.

Publication of the book led to a Quebec royal commission a year ago and the inquiry report handed to Mr. Wagner earlier this month concluded Mr. Hebert's contention that Wilbert Coffin was railroaded to the gallows by government and police officials was largely unfounded.

Coffin was hanged in 1956 for the murder of one of three United States bear hunters killed in the Gaspé Peninsula three years earlier. A number of police officers and officials named in the book are already suing Mr. Hebert for a total of $120,000.

Bonanno's Son Picked Up

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Tucson police and FBI agents arrested Tuesday the son of vanished underworld leader Joseph Bonanno.

Salvatore (Bill) Bonanno, 23, was taken from a barber's chair and brought before U.S. Commissioner Thomas McKay on a federal warrant issued in New York.

The warrant orders Bonanno to appear in New York Jan. 5 before a federal grand jury inquiring into the Oct. 11 disappearance of his father.

Cast of Bribery Probe

The Dorion Players

Here is a partial guide in the cast in the Dorion inquiry, the biggest courtroom drama in recent Canadian history:

Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court, conducting the judicial investigation into allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling at lofty levels of the federal government.

Lucien Rivard, 48, wanted in the United States on a charge of narcotics smuggling for the Mafia crime syndicate, in jail while his lawyers try to get him out on bail or habeas corpus.

Pierre Lamontagne, 29, acting for the U.S., who says he was offered a $20,000 bribe not to oppose bail for Rivard.

Raymond Denis, 31, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, accused by Lamontagne of offering him the bribe.

Guy Lord, 25, former executive assistant to Justice Minister Favreau; and Andre Levesque, executive assistant to Prime Minister Pearson saying he had made representations in the Rivard case.

Raymond Doucet, lawyer for Rivard.

POSSIBLE WITNESSES

Edwin Lechasseur, charged with fraud in Montreal, friend of Rivard.

Robert Emilee Giguere, charged with capital murder in Montreal.

Guy Masson, so far unidentified.

Raymond Rouleau, brother of the MP.

Ronald Crevier, former sergeant in charge of the RCMP

RCMP Inspector J. P. Drapens.
